Raid on Restaurant Brings Charges of Abuse

"A frame-up to halt my attempt to break up gambling," was the statement Police Chief William McCrady made late Thursday after a complaint was filed with Safety Director Charles Caskey asking the chief's dismissal. McCrady made no other statement about the charges.

Safety Director Caskey said no date would be set for a hearing "for the present."

Witnesses Questioned

"At present I'm not going to do anything about it," he declared. "Several witnesses have been questioned about the affair and testified in favor of the chief. There is nothing to substantiate the charges."

"The chief took me out to question persons just in case anything did come up. Threats had been made about it. I have some details to look up before anything is done."

Carter Files Charge

The complaint, filed by Charles Carter, E. Main street restaurant operator, charges that on the morning of April 25 McCrady entered his restaurant and conducted himself in a manner unbecoming an officer in performance of his duty by using blasphemous and abusive language.

SALTREEK GIRL CUT, BRUISED IN TWO-CAR WRECK

Miss Virginia Poling, Saltcreek township, was treated Friday morning for cuts and bruises on her right elbow that she suffered when the auto in which she was riding with Marvin Hartman, Tarleton, figured in a collision with a car driven by Wendell Boyer, N. Court street.

The accident occurred on E. Main street between Court and Pickaway streets.

Wreckage Of Giant Hindenburg Ablaze After Crash

HINDENBURG BURNS AT LAKEHURST, N. J.

Source of Electrical Spark That Ignited Hydrogen Gas Sought by Experts, Who Hurry to Scene of Latest Tragedy

HUNDREDS AT PORT SEE DISASTER

Dr. Eckener, Other German Authorities to Leave for America on Steamer, Friday

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., May 7 (UP)—The Hindenburg death toll reached 32 today while lighter-than-air experts gathered around the wreckage of the former queen of the skies to ascertain what caused her to crash in flames as she was completing her first voyage of the season across the north Atlantic.

German Ambassador Hans Luther came flying to the scene from Washington, and it was understood that Claude Swanson, secretary of the navy, and Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce, would come here today. In addition to Luther's investigation in behalf of the German government, it seemed likely that an official naval board of inquiry would be formed. A German committee was ready to sail at noon for the United States.

Source of Spark Sought

It seemed certain that a spark of electricity set off the hydrogen gas in the greatest dirigible ever built, but what generated that spark may never be known. It might have been an accumulation of static or a spark from one of her four Diesel engines.

While experts examined her still hot wreckage, doctors and nurses ministered to the wounded and dying in hospitals in Lakewood. One passenger—Irene Doeber of Mexico City—and a member of the ground crew—Allen Hagaman—died early today. Seventeen of the passengers were killed, and 15 of the crew. In all 28 bodies had been accounted for—26 having been taken from the wreckage.

Hagaman was the only one of the ground crew of 150 civilians and sailors to suffer fatal injuries, though six others were hurt.

The Hindenburg carried 26 passengers and a crew of 61. Of the 63 survivors, approximately 50 were injured or burned. Three—including her commander, Captain Max Pruss—were in critical condition and their lives were despaired for.

The disaster seemed to spell the end of any further military experimentation with dirigibles in America and official exponents of the big ships in Washington saw all their hopes disappear in the flames that consumed the Hindenburg. But in Germany, the dirigible men talked stubbornly of yet larger and faster Zeppelins.

Chairman Royal S. Copeland of the senate commerce committee sent Col. Harold E. Hartly, an aviation expert, to Lakehurst to begin a preliminary investigation. Maj. R. W. Schroeder, assistant director of the bureau of air commerce, was to arrive this morning. The department of commerce also ordered Fred D. Fagg here from New York. Chairman Morris Shephard of the senate military affairs committee said his committee would consider a congressional investigation of the tragedy.

Ready to Land

The proud flag ship of the German dirigible service—and one of the three dirigibles remaining after a long series of disasters since the World War—was preparing to land last night after her voyage from Germany. She had thrown out her landing ropes. Her passengers were watching the waiting ground crew. Suddenly flames ran along the outside of her afterquarters, at the top. There was an explosion that shook the countryside, followed by a series of lesser explosions. Then, shooting up a great column of flame and smoke, she crashed to earth.

The news of the tragedy flashed around the world. Chancellor Adolf Hitler, dictator of Germany, who, with other leaders of the Nazi regime whose swastika emblem rode proudly on the Hindenburg's rudders, regarded the ship as a symbol of the greatness of (Continued on Page Ten)

KUHN AND EBLIN SENT TO PRISON

Two Caldwell, Scott and Lenora Dawson Deny Indictments

Two sentences were imposed by Judge J. W. Adkins, Friday morning, in the indictment of persons indicted by the county grand jury last Tuesday.

James Kuhn, 19, Weldon avenue, pleaded guilty to three charges of forgery. He was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory for a term of from one to 20 years. The sentences in the three cases will run concurrently. The charges were based on checks for $8, $5.50 and $3.50 issued on March 25, 23 and 20, respectively.

George Eblin, 23, Island road, admitted breaking and entering the Norfolk & Western freight station on March 14. He was ordered to serve one to 15 years in the Ohio penitentiary, one-half of the time to be spent at hard labor. Eblin told the judge he had previously served two terms in the reformatory.

Caldwell Enters Denial

William Caldwell, 29, Wayne township, indicted on a charge of shooting with intent to wound Edward Hamilton, 32, also of Wayne township, during a gun duel, denied the charge. His bond was fixed at $1,000. He asked the court to appoint an attorney to represent him.

Woodrow Caldwell, 21, Circleville R. F. D., denied a burglary and larceny charge involving the theft of $5 last Feb. 6 from the Shelby and McCrady lunch room. Arraignment of Floyd Gaines, 19, of Columbus, formerly of Circleville, indicted on the same charge, was delayed until Monday at 10 a. m. due to the absence of his attorney.

Oscar Scott, city, indicted on two statutory charges, pleaded not guilty. Lenora Dawson, city, denied a charge of forgery. Assignment of the cases for trial will be made early next week.

H.O.L.C. SUES FOR FORECLOSURE OF TWO PROPERTIES

Two foreclosure actions were filed in common pleas court Thursday by the Home Owners Loan Co. One of the suits, filed against James R. Beckett, and others, asks $2,114.56 and foreclosure of a mortgage on real estate in Commercial Point. The other against Charles A. and Melvina Fowler, Ashville, asks $890.53 and foreclosure of a mortgage on a lot in Ashville.

ESHELMAN FIRM SUES FOR $1,335 RESULT OF TEST

John W. Eshelman & Sons filed suit in common pleas court Thursday against the Plevs Puffed Products Co. seeking $1,335.64.

The petition says that in the fall of 1935 the companies entered into an agreement whereby the defendant company agreed to demonstrate a process of puffing corn for a dog food product. The action explains the plaintiff was to install certain equipment in its plant, and the defendant agreed to reimburse the local company for any expense it might incur for the demonstration.

The local firm installed a pump and necessary fittings and hardware used in installing the equipment, the action states, at a cost of $1,335.64. It charges the demonstration was unsatisfactory.

NINE TRAGEDIES WRECK LIGHTER THAN AIR CRAFT

BY UNITED PRESS

Destruction of the German dirigible Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N. J., brought to nine the total of major lighter-than-air ship disasters since the World War. Five of the tragedies have occurred in the United States.

The list:
April 25, 1921—The ZR2, awaiting delivery to the United States, exploded in mid-air over Hull, England, killing 42.

Feb. 21, 1922—The Italian airship Roma struck a high tension wire at Norfolk, Va., killing 34.

Dec. 31, 1923—The French airship Dixmude fell into the sea off the coast of Sicily, killing 52.

Sept. 3, 1925—The Shenandoah, pride of the U. S. navy, broke in half while fighting a storm near Cambridge, Ohio. Fourteen were killed.

May 25, 1928—The Italian dirigible Italia, carrying Gen. Umberto Nobile and a party of explorers, crashed on a projected flight to the North Pole. Nobile and most of his companions escaped. Eight were killed.

Oct. 5, 1930—The huge British airship R-101 crashed near Beauvais, France, on a flight to India, killing 46.

April 4, 1933—The U. S. navy dirigible Akron, bucking a severe storm, crashed into the Atlantic off the New Jersey coast near Barnegat lightship. Seventy-three were killed, including Rear Admiral William Moffett, chief of aeronautics.

Feb. 15, 1935—The U. S. navy dirigible Macon crashed into the Pacific off Point Sur, California. Two were killed.

May 6, 1937—The German dirigible Hindenburg, completing its first Atlantic crossing of the year, burned at Lakehurst, N. J.

ECKENER SAYS SABOTAGE MAY BE FIRE CAUSE

LONDON, May 7.—(UP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener was quoted by the Evening Standard today as saying he believed it "very likely" that sabotage caused the wreck of the Hindenburg.

At the same time Webb Miller, United Press war correspondent who made the first flight with the Hindenburg to the United States last year, disclosed that he received before the flight an anonymous warning not to make the trip because something would happen to the ship when it arrived in the United States.

Eckener was quoted: "It is very likely the disaster is due to an act of sabotage. I have repeatedly received anonymous threatening letters, especially warning me not to land the Hindenburg at Lakehurst. It is quite impossible that the explosion was due to lightning as the airship was equipped with the most modern preventive apparatus."

WALLY STUDIES INVITATIONS TO HER MARRIAGE

MONTS, France, May 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson worked today on the list of those to be invited to her wedding with the Duke of Windsor. It was understood that the invitations would be sent only at the last moment in order to keep secret the date selected for the ceremony.

The duke is reported to have telephoned his youngest, favorite brother, the Duke of Kent, last night and told him the date. Kent is expected to be best man at the wedding.

The Duke and Mrs. Simpson made their first public appearance since their reunion today when they motored to the little town of Semblancy 10 miles from Monts. They lunched at La Mer Hamard inn. Mrs. Simpson wore a blue hat and dress. She wore no rings. The duke was hatless.

CARS SLIGHTLY DAMAGED IN NORTHEAST ACCIDENT

Autos driven by Roy Morton, Portsmouth, and Fred Egan, Laurelville, were slightly damaged Friday morning in a traffic mishap on N. Court street near Northridge road. No one was injured.

Egan told Police Chief William McCrady his car bumped into the rear of Morton's car when Morton stopped suddenly to avoid striking a car making a turn.

DEBT GOES OVER HIGHEST FIGURE PLANNED BY F. D.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(UP)—The national debt rose today beyond the $35,026,000,000 limit fixed by President Roosevelt.

While congress struggled with economy and the nation prepared for higher taxes, the treasury statement for today revealed that the nation's debt reached the unprecedented high mark of $35,039,956,385.49 on May 5.

The index of the Treasury Department's upward movement of $52,052,439.07 from the previous day, resulting principally from another step in the treasury's borrowing program of $50,000,000 weekly.

LACK OF WORK REDUCES W.P.A. PAYROLL FIGURE

The weekly employment report of W. P. A. shows a total of 284 persons on the payroll, a reduction of 13 under the previous week.

During the last week, 12 workers have been laid off due to lack of projects. More reductions will be necessary in the near future.

The Deer Creek township road project has been completed. Some of the workers were transferred to other projects. Others had to be discharged.

PRESIDENT SENDS NOTE OF REGRET TO NAZI LEADER

GALVESTON, Tex., May 7.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today expressed to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler of Germany "my deepest sympathy for the tragic loss of life" in the Hindenburg disaster at Lakehurst, N. J., yesterday.

The message, which was addressed to Hitler, said: "I have just learned of the disaster to the airship Hindenburg and offer you and the German people my deepest sympathy for the tragic loss of life which resulted from this unexpected and unhappy event."

News of the disaster was received by the president aboard the U. S. S. Potomac off Port Aransas, Tex., in the Gulf of Mexico where he is on a vacation fishing trip. The president spent yesterday working on official mail.

An earlier message sent to temporary headquarters here by Mr. Roosevelt, said: "I am distressed to hear of the tragedy of the Hindenburg and extend my deepest sympathy to the families of passengers, officers and crew who lost their lives."

HELP IS ASKED IN SEARCH FOR WESLEYAN CO-ED

DELAWARE, May 7.—(UP)—The parents of Ruth Baumgardner, 21, brown-haired Ohio Wesleyan university senior who has been missing since Tuesday night, asked authorities to extend their search for her to nearby cities today.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baumgardner of Lakewood came here to aid in the search as soon as they were notified of the co-ed's disappearance, one month before she would have been graduated. They asked that hotels in Columbus and other nearby cities be checked.

"In her last few letters Ruth has said often that she was tired, very tired," Mrs. Baumgardner said. Baumgardner said he feared his daughter may have had a nervous collapse "from trying to do too much." College officials said her scholastic work had been "good."

SCIOTO PROJECT DELAY FORECAST BY VIC DONAHEY

Further delay in the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project was seen Friday following a report from Senator Vic Donahey that Will Whittington, chairman of the house flood control committee, intended to see the president on his return from his fishing trip and urge him to reconsider his decision to let flood control projects "slide" during the current session of congress.

MERRILL READY TO START TRIP OVER ATLANTIC

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 7.—(UP)—Dick Merrill, trans-Atlantic flyer, announced today that he expected to take off from Floyd Bennett field tomorrow for London and make the return trip across the Atlantic with pictures of the coronation.

He said Jack Lambie would accompany him as co-pilot. They will fly a Lockheed Electra plane which is equipped with a two-way radio and automatic pilot device. It will carry 1,200 gallons of gasoline.

PROTESTS FILED AGAINST SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANS

A group of city councilmen met with several industrial plant officials Thursday afternoon in the council chamber to hear protests against council's plans to proceed with the construction of a disposal plant.

Councilmen present were Harry Steinhauser, E. S. Neuding, Clyde Leist and John C. Goeller. James I. Smith, Jr., and Frank Lynch met with the city dads.

TWO ZEPPELINS LEFT

LAKEHURST, May 7.—(UP)—The end of the Hindenburg leaves only two Zeppelins. One is the Los Angeles, property of the United States, long worn out and retired. The other is the Graf Zeppelin which Hugo Eckener flew on many spectacular voyages, including a trip around the world, which convinced millions of the safety and feasibility of lighter-than-air craft.

ORIGIN OF SPARK THAT TOUCHED OFF HINDENBURG SOUGHT IN INQUIRIES

LUTHER, FAGG, AND ROSENDAHL HEADING PROBE

Hydrogen Ignited Aboard
'Perfect' German Ship
Blamed for Disaster

GERMAN AGENT SHOCKED

Survivor of Shenandoah
Watches From Field

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 7.—(UP)—American and German air experts united today to trace back to its origin the tiny yellow spark that set off a single flash of white flame which destroyed the Hindenburg.

The most famous lighter-than-airship commanders of the United States, the federal air commerce bureau and the representatives of the German government, headed by Ambassador Hans Luther, started their inquiries while the bodies of 35 dead still were being removed from a damp tangle of debris which yesterday was the world's greatest dirigible.

The flare of fire from the Hindenburg's bulging gas bags as she edged down to a landing at the end of her first 1937 transatlantic crossing was almost like a tragic laboratory experiment before the eyes of men trained for years in airship problems; men such as Commander Charles E. Rosendahl of the U. S. navy, who watched from the landing field, and Capt. Ernst Lehmann, a veteran of countless Zeppelin voyages, who was in the control cabin and stumbled from the wreckage suffering serious injuries.

"Perfect" Ship Lost
These men—seeking all their lives the mystery of airship disasters—saw the "perfect" dirigible destroyed. They agreed, so far as they have reached a decision, that somewhere an electric spark flashed through a mixture of hydrogen and air inside the fabric of the ship, touching off the explosion.

That instantaneous explosion resulted because the Hindenburg was filled with hydrogen, which is one of the most explosive gases known when mixed with air, as it would be if there were any leak in the gas bags or if any gas accumulated in the ship when the gas valves were opened for landing. Helium, which was used in American airships, but is not available outside of the United States, will not explode but it is heavier than hydrogen and makes a ship more difficult to maneuver in a storm.

Whether the spark leaped from a motor, shot out of an exhaust as the ship swung slightly sidewise or was the result of a heavy accumulation of static that touched off the explosion as the soggy landing ropes touched the field, they could not definitely say.

It was the answer to that mystery that was sought in all night conferences among German and American officials, aviation experts and those who had seen or lived through the disaster.

Inquiries Immediate
Probably never before has trained experts had such an opportunity

A Survivor—His Clothing Burned From His Body

A survivor of the Hindenburg, suffering terribly from burns, his clothing burned from his body, is led to safety.

to view the destruction of a great airship at such close range from both inside and outside and live. For that reason, informal investigation and conferences started at once, with the prospect later of a navy board of inquiry being summoned should Rosendahl request it of the navy department at Washington, as expected.

Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics, arranged to leave Washington shortly after dawn to join in the inquiry and it was rumored that Secretary of Navy Claude Swanson might come here.

The inquiries will be aided by testimony of so many of the world's leading experts on airships—including Rosendahl, who survived the Shenandoah crash—that there was hope it would provide information of greatest importance to the future construction of airships.

The long, low-roofed administration building of this naval air station was yellow with lights all night as the officials compared with observations and questioned members of the ground crew who had grasped the landing ropes of the dirigible and were dragging her to the landing mast when she exploded.

Naval officers in trim blue suits, stiff white caps and gold buttons that sparkled in the darkness hurried in and out of the building but Rosendahl secluded himself.

Commander Jesse L. Kenworthy, executive officer and second in command at the air station, paused once on the sidewalk a few hours before dawn to talk crisply of the crash. Kenworthy was standing on the landing field when the Hindenburg came into her last port.

"There are half a dozen ways in which a spark could ignite the hydrogen mixed with air," he said.

All Questioned

"Every one of them is being sought in the questioning of the crews and other survivors. It might have been a jump spark from a motor or from an exhaust. It is possible that it was an accumulation of static that caused the fire and explosion but that is less likely.

"I was watching the ship closely as she came in. The first sign of trouble was a little burst of flame from the aft end. Then there was more flame and the aft end sank toward the ground, the nose pointing upward.

"At some time about then there was a burst of yellowish white flame that swept upward through the ship and a series of explosions."

He turned abruptly and walked toward the officers' quarters where the little, white-haired Luther was pursuing another line of inquiry.

Luther, preparing to return to his homeland and retire, speeded to Lakehurst from Washington by airplane and automobile shortly after he was notified of the disaster. With his naval attaché, General Boetticher, he secluded himself in the quarters and began drawing the story of the crash from witnesses.

For Luther, it was perhaps the last and the saddest duty he had performed for his country in America. In typical Prussian fashion, the crew avoided talking outside the conference room.

Still another phase of the inquiry began with the arrival from Washington of Dr. Fred Fagg, Jr., who—in contrast to the ambassador—was facing the first big job since his appointment as head of the Bureau of Air Commerce.

Plantation Rivalry Grows

HONOLULU.—(UP)—Rivalry is still on for the biggest plantation in Hawaii or even the mainland itself. The purchase by the Kohala Sugar Company of the Niulili Mill and Plantation properties for more than $1,000,000 gives it a plantation of 12,000 acres that ranks as the second largest in the islands.

They say the next war will make the 1914-18 imbroglio look like a meeting of a humane society. You can't stop civilization once it gets well under way.

PEPPER MARTIN'S QUARTET

The "Missouri Mudcaps" quartet, made up of four members of the St. Louis Cardinals' baseball team, will get their first radio "break" in the Saturday Night Party on May 8, when they join Doris Hare, English comedienne, as guests of James Melton, the Party's master of ceremonies.

The members of the quartet are Lon Warneke, Pepper Martin, Frenchy Bordagaray and Bill McGee. The combination is a little unusual, consisting of harmonica, guitar, fiddle and one vocal member. Warneke, pitching star, plays the guitar; the sliding, diving out-fielder, Pepper Martin, performs on the harmonica; Bordagaray, playing his first season at third base for the Cards, sings; and Bill McGee, another pitcher, plays the fiddle. The four got together during training season to while away the time.

The idea of baseball players going musical at one of the Saturday Night Party broadcasts over the NBC red network at 7 p. m. (EST) is not without precedent. Two weeks ago Joe DiMaggio was heard in a confident rendition of "Frankie and Johnny."

ARMSTRONG TO CHICAGO

The "Harlem broadcast" starring Louis Armstrong, Eddie Green and Gee Gee James, will be broadcast from Chicago Friday night with Chicago Negro entertainers as guest stars.

In broadcasts originating from New York, Armstrong has used Negro entertainers from Harlem as guests. Guests for the 30 minute program at 8 p. m. (EST) this Friday will not be selected until Armstrong arrives in Chicago, where he fills a two-week theatre engagement.

Eddie Green and Gee Gee James will be featured, as usual, in a comedy sketch written by Octavus Roy Cohen, with Eddie still trying to get a share of his $3,000 inheritance, which he has entrusted to his fiancée.

LEAGUE TO AID ROSS MINISTERS FIGHTING FORD

Petitions For Removal To Be Circulated in Churches Sunday

STATEMENT DISCLOSED

Law Enforcement Now and in Future Stressed

CHILLICOTHE, May 7—Announcing that petitions for the removal of Mayor James E. Ford will be circulated through the churches Sunday, and declaring itself to be a permanent organization, the Ross County Citizenship League issued the following statement Thursday:

"Wednesday evening, May 5th, the Ross County Ministerial Committee met with associated committees in the interest of law enforcement. Because of the widespread interest in the movement against slot machines and law enforcement officials who fail to enforce the law in relation to gambling devices, it was necessary to enlarge this committee which now embraces the entire county as the Ross County Citizenship League.

"The purpose of this larger organization is not limited to the present law enforcement officials but to all those who will succeed them in similar positions of the future.

Chance To Sign

"Petitions for the removal of Mayor Ford will be ready and circulated through the churches by Sunday, May 9th. Many persons outside the churches and associated organizations have been asking for the privilege of signing said petitions. If you are a registered voter in Chillicothe this privilege will be given you Sunday, May 9th, and the subsequent days of the week.

"Evidence relative to the illegal operation of gambling devices in many places throughout the city has been collected and is now in the hands of our attorney, Mr. Phil Butler, who will use same for purposes of prosecution.

"Friends of the movement have offered financial assistance to aid in this law-enforcement campaign. Announcement will be made later as to financial needs. However if any who are interested in this movement, care to make a contribution, they may give same to any of the ministers, who will turn such money over to the treasurer of the Ross County Citizenship League."

FITTS TO OPEN ENTIRE TAYLOR MURDER PROBE

Statements of Ex-Actress Result in New Inquiry in Mystery Death

JURORS IN SESSION

All Previous Witnesses to Be Questioned

LOS ANGELES, May 7 — (UP) — Byron Fitts, district attorney, today reopened the entire 15-year-old William Desmond Taylor mystery on the basis of new statements made to the grand jury yesterday by Mary Miles Minter, star of the silent movies, and her mother and sister.

Eugene Williams, deputy prosecutor, said he would take statements from all previous witnesses in the case, including Mrs. Douglas McLean, Taylor's former wife, who 15 years ago told of seeing a man leave the Taylor bungalow after a shot was fired.

While waiting to enter the grand jury room, Miss Minter, now 32, plump and matronly, told frankly of her love for Taylor that has kept her unmarried the 15 years since he was slain.

"He was the only man I wanted to marry," she said. "While I may not have lived a hermit's life, I have kept faith and never married."

Taylor was Miss Minter's director. He took charge of her career when she was a blonde curly-haired actress of 16, raised her to stardom in a few months and was shot to death at his home within a year. The slaying has remained one of the strangest unsolved crimes of the movie colony.

NORA F. RIEGEL OF CEDAR HILL DEAD AT HOME

Suing Garbo

DAVID SCHRATTER, German film producer, is seen in Los Angeles court as his suit against Greta Garbo, screen actress, for $10,500 was continued until June 21. Miss Garbo's attorney pleaded if the star appeared at present it would delay production and cost the film company $6,000 to $8,000 a day. Schratter asserts he spent the money on Miss Garbo in 1924 to give her a start in films. Her counsel denies this.

TEMPTING MENUS

Questions and Answers

Is there any reason to avoid drinking water at mealtime? How much water should we drink each day?

Once it was considered harmful to drink water at mealtime, but provided the water is not drunk for the sake of washing down food, it is helpful rather than harmful. We should drink at least a quart of water each day. As long as the water is not taken to interfere with normal chewing and mastication it makes little difference when it is drunk.

Is it advisable to strain orange juice? Is there any loss of nutritive value in so doing?

To strain orange juice means that only the water soluble material is used, and there is a good amount of nutritive value, notably vitamin A and iron in the suspended particles of pulp which are discarded. In fact, the use of the whole fruit, rather than the juice is a practice to be recommended.

Please give me a recipe for a pie made with prune pulp.

Serve a gelatine pie made with prune pulp and juice topped with whipped cream for a dainty mid-season delicacy.

Prune Pie DeLuxe
1 Tbsp. gelatine
3/4 C. cold water
1 C. hot prune juice
1 C. prune pulp
1/2 C. sugar
1/2 C. crushed pineapple, drained
1/4 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 C. cream, whipped

Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add sugar, salt and hot prune juice and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Add lemon juice and aside to cool. When mixture begins to congeal, fold in combination of prune pulp and pineapple and the whipped cream. Pour in previously baked pie shell and serve garnished with nut meat.

Have you ever heard of an Apricot Upside-Down Cake made with cocoa? I would appreciate a recipe for it if you could find one for me.

Upside-Down Apricot Cocoa Cake
2 Tbsp. melted butter
3 Tbsp. sugar
1 No. 2 can apricot halves, drained
3 maraschino cherries
2 Tbsp. cocoa
1/2 C. hot coffee
1 1/2 C. flour
1/4 tsp. soda
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
6 Tbsp. soft shortening
1/2 C. sugar
2 eggs, separated
6 Tbsp. milk
1 tsp. vinegar

Grease bottom and sides of pan with melted butter. Sprinkle over bottom. Put cherry in apricot half and arrange cut side down on the sugar. Let stand while preparing cake batter. Mix cocoa and coffee together. Let cool. Sift flour before measuring, resift with soda and baking powder. Cream shortening and sugar together until light and fluffy. Stir in well beaten egg yolks. Add cooled cocoa mixture. Add flour alternately with milk and vinegar, beating until smooth after each addition. old in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour on top of apricots, filling pan to within an inch of the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35 minutes or until cake shrinks from the sides of the pan. Serve with a topping of sweetened whipped cream, if desired.

W.P.A. Plans Household Project in Circleville

If sufficient interest is shown here, W.P.A. may open a household demonstration project for training persons to qualify as competent household workers.

These projects are operated as regular WPA projects and workers are governed by the same regulations applicable to other workers. Workers certified by WPA for employment on this type of project will be paid only for the time spent in demonstration work and not for study periods.

The projects can be operated in community centers, practice houses belonging to boards of education, parish houses, clubs or private homes.

Mrs. Beulah Madison, supervisor of women's and professional projects, is studying the local household employment situation to determine if a project of this type would be successful.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

An adventure picture offering a wealth of excitement, a tender romance, some of the most spectacular scenes ever photographed and entertainment which should find favor with father, mother, sister and brother opens at the screen of the Cliftona Theatre today in "The Soldier and the Lady".

Besides its remarkable pagentry of drama and action, this noteworthy version of Jules Verne's mighty novel, "Michael Strogoff," introduces a new candidate for American picture laurels in the magnetic person of Anton Walbrook. The international stage and screen favorite offers a performance which skyrockets him into the ranks of our own top-notch screen celebrities.

AT THE CIRCLE

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, William Powell and Myrna Loy,

Clark Gable and Jean Harlow—these are combinations that mean a great deal to patrons of motion pictures throughout the world. But if you were to ask the average juvenile screen fan who in his or her opinion is the greatest starring twosome in pictures chances are the answer would be "Jack Perrin and Starlight." Perrin, who is starring in "Hair-Trigger Casey" now at the Circle Theatre is proud of the popularity he has achieved among the youngsters.

AT THE GRAND

Buck Jones, one of the favorites among cowboy actors, is the star at the Grand theatre Friday and Saturday in "Sandflow".

NAZIS, SHOCKED, CONTINUE PLANS FOR DIRIGIBLE

LZ-130 Being Constructed
in Berlin For Service
Over Atlantic

DR. ECKENER STUNNED

Official Committee Boards
Europa For New York

BERLIN, May 7.—(UP)—Germans, mourning the loss of their dirigible Hindenburg as a national disaster, pledged themselves today to keep their flag in the air on new and better airships.

An official committee left this morning to investigate the explosion which wrecked the Hindenburg, traveling by airplane to board the liner Europa at Bremerhaven for New York.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, Zeppelin chief, left Vienna by automobile to take charge of investigations at this end. Eckener had been visiting Vienna with a war ministry staff captain.

In black bordered newspapers, the people read this morning the story of the tragedy. But beside this story, on the first pages, was the announcement that a new great dirigible, the LZ-130, soon would be completed and put into the transatlantic service.

Not Discouraged

It was not until after midnight in Germany that the Hindenburg burned and the news did not reach the public until this morning. Early workers crowded around the first extras that they read not only the story of the tragedy but banner-lined stories which said:

"The new airship is under construction. The German people will not allow themselves to be discouraged."

This is what happened when years before the war old Count Zeppelin's first big airship was destroyed by fire after a forced landing due to engine trouble. Though many people sneered at his work and said that God would have given people wings if he had wanted them to fly, within a week more than 6,000,000 marks (then $1,500,000) was raised by popular subscription to build a new, better one, and Zeppelin went forward with his work.

When the flash first came telling of the Hindenburg's loss most people had gone to bed, tired out, after a day of gay picnicking and partying on the Ascension day holiday.

The clerk on duty at the Zeppelin airport at Frankfurt got the news and thought it was a joke. Half an hour earlier he had received from the Hindenburg the routine message:

"Voyage ended. All aboard well." This is the customary message sent just before a landing.

Realization Difficult
It was a full hour before officials at the field could bring themselves to realize that disaster had overtaken the ship of which Germany was so proud. Then emergency calls were sent to all men employed at the airport, and the sad work of compiling passenger lists, relaying the news and other work was started.

Fuehrer Adolf Hitler was notified by telephone from the ministry of propaganda here. He had just taken a holiday trip in the gunboat Grille along the Kaiser Wilhelm canal from Cuxhaven.

The first official statement was that the disaster was caused by a flash of lightning.

But even today, those who gathered about newspaper bulletin boards or read the black bordered extras, suggested that it might have been sabotage. There was a general mistaken belief among the uninformed that the ship was filled with non-inflammable helium.

At Friedrichshafen, over by Lake Constance, the first task was to find Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Zeppelin chief, who had been in Vienna.

(The Daily Telegraph of London quoted Dr. Eckener as saying by telephone: "I am unable to conceive how such an explosion could have occurred. I probably will have to go to New York to investigate the explosion and its causes.") (He added, the Daily Telegraph

Mary Home to Wed Soon

CORN EXCEEDS WLW FIDDLERS PRICE RECORDS PLAY SATURDAY IN PIT MARKET AT THE GRAND

CHICAGO, May 7.—Suddenly shooting skyward 2½ cents a bushel late Thursday, corn put into eclipse all high-price records of the last dozen years.

The apex reached, however, $1.31½ for May delivery, was not maintained, values receding at the last almost a cent from the peak as a result of brisk profit-taking.

The new top has not been equalled since early in 1925, when May rose to $1.37½, which in turn was the highest as far back as 1920, when May brought $1.97½.

Summit prices, 5 cents a bushel above May delivery of wheat, the largest premium achieved in many years, where ascribed to an outburst of acute anxiety on the part of traders who are short of corn to meet contract requirements in the next few weeks.

Uncompleted May corn contracts outstanding at present in Chicago total about 5,000,000 bushels, whereas deliverable stocks of corn here are virtually zero.

The market action was in general taken as evidence that arrivals of Argentine corn have failed to lessen tension as to possibilities of a sensational squeeze in prices during May if rural offerings of domestic corn do not soon show decided enlargement.

Showers in Kansas and Nebraska, as well as in parts of the Canadian prairie provinces, together with forecasts of more moisture, tended to hold wheat prices down. Besides, a lull in Canadian export business was apparent.

Rye and oats largely followed wheat. Cash interests were credited with buying May and July rye. Provisions reflected hog market downturns.

ILLITERACY RATIO FIGURED

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—Mildred J. Weiss, supervisor of literacy and Americanization, has figured that if all the illiterates of California were bunched in one city, it would be the third largest city in the state. And California ranks only 15th among the states in illiteracy.

Dr. Ludwig Duerr, chief Zeppelin constructor, was so stunned by the news that he was unable to speak.

CONSTIPATION CUTS DOWN YOUR ENERGY, DULLS HAPPINESS

Don't let common constipation take all the fun out of living. This condition drains your vitality and enthusiasm. It may also be the cause of dull headaches, poor appetite, sleeplessness. You feel punk.

Why endure half-sick days when you can correct constipation due to meals low in "bulk" by eating a delicious cereal?

Millions of people have used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with satisfactory results. Laboratory tests prove it's safe and effective.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, and gently cleanses the intestines. Isn't this food better than taking weakening pills and drugs?

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Three times daily, in severe cases. Serve as a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Rhubarb and Fresh Pineapple

Glories of spring includes the taste thrill of fresh fruits like pineapple, rhubarb and strawberries. You may use them in many ways, and vary old favorites to keep the fruit flavors delightful.

Have you ever made a deep dish rhubarb pie? Here's the way we make it, and folks tell us it's good.

Deep Dish Rhubarb Pie

- 4 C. rhubarb
- 2 C. granulated sugar
- 1/4 C. flour
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 egg, slightly beaten
- Plain pastry

Cut rhubarb in half-inch pieces. Mix sugar, flour, salt and egg. Combine thoroughly with the rhubarb and arrange in six individual casseroles. Roll out plain pastry. Cut circles large enough to cover the top of the casseroles. Gash the top of the circles. Place one piece on each casserole, and press the edges firmly in place. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees) for 30 minutes.

A Cocktail That Whets the Appetite

Blend thoroughly, one cup of pineapple juice, one cup of tomato juice, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one tablespoon lemon juice. Add one-half cup of crushed ice. Serves four.

Pineapple Torte

Made with sweetened condensed milk this recipe is in demand for rich desserts.

- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 C. graham cracker crumbs
- 1 1/2 C. (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
- 3 eggs, separated
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- 1/2 C. finely chopped pineapple

Cook pineapple in a little sugar. Drain off juice. Add butter and cinnamon to graham cracker crumbs. Spread a thick layer of crumbs on bottom of deep 10-inch layer cake pan. Beat egg yolks well, add milk, lemon juice, rind and pineapple. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into pan. Cover with remaining crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Strawberry Ice Cream

A nice ending for any dinner or luncheon is this fresh strawberry ice cream. Try it the next time you want a treat for the family.

- 1 C. crushed berries
- 1/4 C. sugar
- 1/4 C. cold water
- 1 Tbsp. gelatine
- Melt over hot water
- 1 C. cream
- 2 egg whites

Mix berries, sugar and gelatine. Place in refrigerator till thoroughly chilled. Whip cream stiff, also egg whites. Fold into mixture. Turn into trays of refrigerator and freeze three or four hours. Serves eight.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP No. 5

Girl Scout Troop No. 5 held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in Memorial Hall. The meeting opened with the flag ceremony service. Group singing followed. Mrs. W. W. Robinson gave an interesting talk on how to help our leaders, and others also.

In the amateur hour featured in the program for the meeting Eleanor Thomas won first prize, Mary A. Snider second and Viola Arledge, third. Mrs. Robert Smith, scout leader, read several nature stories, and selections from the Girl Scout books. We were dismissed after patrol corners.

Educator, Family to Visit Their Parents in Ashville

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith of Bay Village Expected; Other News Notes

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Griffith and children of Bay Village, near Cleveland, will spend the week-end in Ashville with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Griffith and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Taylor.

Mr. Griffith has been superintendent of schools near Cleveland for the last nineteen years, seven of these at Cleveland Heights and twelve at Bay Village where he has signed a contract for another three years. In 1915, while your correspondent was in charge of The Pickaway News, this same Mr. Griffith, then in the department of journalism at O. S. U., wrote for the news his humorous and much read "Rube and Hannah" column also the life history of many of "our older boys."

Cromley to Plant Corn

Leroy Cromley, across the creek in Walnut township at the "old homestead" is doing some farming, too, this year, along with the others who have large acreages. He will plant to corn 190 acres, nine of which, will be of the hybrid variety raised and sold for seed at a contract price. The Hedges boys, Walter and Roger, just east of town, have 41 acres of this hybrid variety. With the amount of work it takes to detassel this hybrid variety for a period of at least one month, someone will be plenty busy while the tassel season lasts.

Visitor in Village

Edward M. Hines, a former resident of Ashville and for the last several years residing in Columbus, was here yesterday visiting among friends.

To Return to Circleville

Mrs. Clara Denman, who with her brother and sisters has lived in Mt. Sterling the last winter, is removing back to her home at Circleville in the near future.

Job Ended, Another Begun

Fred Curry has completed the cement foundation for the new Earl Essick home in East Main street, and is now doing the same kind of foundation work for the new James Ball residence located on the same street, farther to the east.

In Kuhlwein Dwelling

Elmer Blair and family now occupy the Leonard Kuhlwein dwelling recently vacated by Ray Kuhl-

wein, coming here from Silver Lake, Ind. Mr. Blair has been with the C. & O. railroad for the last nine years and has proven to them to be a reliable and trustworthy employee.

Mrs. Briggs 90

Mrs. Sophia Briggs is celebrating her 90th birthday Friday, May 7. Her Sunday school class, Rev. F. M. Ricketts, teacher, is giving a party for her at the church this evening with a program, eats, candies and all.

Neal Operates Farm

Watson Neal, son of E. Y. Neal, now operates what is known as the Gwynne farm containing 772 acres. E. Y. Neal, the father, operated this farm for 36 years. A herd of 76 fat cattle, with an average weight of 1000 pounds, was recently sold from the farm.

Telegraphy Studied

Ralph Wellington, one of our high school graduates, is under the instruction of Station Agent Joseph Staley, learning telegraphy and railway station work. Ralph told us yesterday that he likes his work and says he is doing fine. He thinks, Howard Wellington and Don Wean, both local boys, have been learning telegraphy for the last year at Circleville under instruction of a Mr. Decamp. They hope soon to be able to pass the required examination and get out on their own.

Officers Listed

The Ashville municipal officers in 1836 according to Fraunfelder's Ashville Directory were: mayor, William M. Miller; clerk, Ward B.

OPEN LETTERS

TO BUSINESS MEN

MERCHANTS: W. E. Wallace, efficient president of the Chamber of Commerce, has called a meeting for next Tuesday evening, which is of interest to every Circleville businessman. The conference will be for discussion of electric light rate ordinances, now pending before the city council. Many businessmen are protesting the commercial schedule. Some councilmen want to approve the ordinance as it is; others oppose it believing merchants are not receiving a warranted reduction. Some settlement should be reached, and as early as possible. I suggest that businessmen work out a definite recommendation, then meet with council, and possibly Southern Ohio Electric Co. officials to voice your wishes.

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: Mayor Graham has designated next week as Safety Week. All civic organizations of the city and county are asked to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in sponsoring a program of education on safety. Last year about 38,000 men, women and children were killed by automobiles on the highways. The loss of life, limb and property through avoidable accidents is appalling. Any program of safety merits the serious consideration of all our citizens. Participate in the program next week and do your share to teach others.

TO DOG OWNERS

RESIDENTS: Dr. V. D. Kerns, health commissioner, recently announced the county quarantine on dogs would be extended until all rabies epidemics in nearby counties have been cleared. City health officials are co-operating in every way with the county health official in preventing a spread of the disease. So far Pickaway county has had very few positive cases of the disease, and every precaution has been taken. I notice some dog owners refuse to comply with quarantine rules by permitting their dogs to run at large. Apparently these dog owners take little interest in the welfare of their friends and neighbors. A few arrests would clear up this situation.

TO ROTARY CLUB

CIVIC LEADERS: The Circuiteer hopes your organization will follow up its resolution that urges the state highway director to go through with the proposed improvement of Route 22 just west of the Scioto river bridge. This short stretch of highway has been a source of constant concern to Circleville and Pickaway county for many years. Delegations have gone to Columbus time after time, but were never able to make progress in their demands. There is only one solution for the terrible condition of the much-travelled highway; that is, rebuild it completely as a trestle project so water that crosses the road at least once every year will not wreck the pavement. A trestle construction would cost a large sum of money, but it is almost certain that the state highway department has foolishly used more money for repairs than would have been needed for building of a highway that would not have required constant care. This work, I believe, is one of the most important under consideration, and the Rotary club could make a permanent name for itself by seeing that it is carried on.

TO PUMPKIN SHOW DIRECTORS

GENTLEMEN: You will meet tonight to make further plans for this year's celebration, but there is one important item you have overlooked in your recent meetings. Will the "girl" shows be permitted this year? Last year numerous protests were made against the introduction of these shows. Why not settle this problem as early as possible.

TO MOTHERS

LADIES: Mother's Day has become a national institution. In every part of the country its recurrence on the second Sunday of May is greeted each year with a wider observance. In hundreds of churches either motherhood will be the sermon theme or there will be some other form of recognition of the anniversary. Furthermore, thousands of men and women, unattached to churches but keeping alive in them the one human love which knows no rivalry, will honor the day in their own individual ways. Visiting mother, or writing to her, sending her a present, or wearing a flower in her memory if she has passed beyond our mortal ken—each heart will speak to her in its own language. And happy are those who do not have to speak to her across the veil—who have not lost her! What words are there that compare with Home and Mother?

TO SCOUT LEADERS

MEN: There were not enough of you at the meeting this week to make any progress toward a financial campaign necessary to continue supervision by the Central Ohio Area Council for Pickaway county. Many troops are in operation, numerous youths are getting an education in scout work that will mean much to them later, but there seems to be little support for a financial campaign that must be held if aid is to be provided. Many persons are in favor of going on with Boy Scout work without assistance of the area council, but others believe it is necessary for the good of all scouts and their programs. No date has been fixed for the next meeting of leaders of the movement, but it is hoped sincerely that much larger representation is present.

TO COUNTY FARMERS

MEN OF SOIL: Nearly all of you have received letters from the county compliance committee, under the government's soil conservation program, urging participation. Many of you will go along, others will not, for various reasons. Last year Uncle Sam sent $135,000 to Pickaway county for distribution among 1,332 farmers, who complied with governmental programs. The amount can be as great, or even higher this year, if agriculturalists will participate. The county has always benefitted by the fact that persons in charge of the federal crop projects have been working for the good of every one of you. Co-operation is necessary to make them successful.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

It is an edifying thing to see capitol police "frisking" witnesses and suspicious-looking listeners at a senate investigation for possible firearms.

We all know that there are local backwaters in this country where such searches occasionally are deemed necessary at the entrances to district court rooms when hotly-contested cases are pending.

But imagine rival groups of gunmen getting up and shooting out some difference of opinion in the presence of a congressional committee, in session in the senate office building, right here in Washington!

HOLSTERS WORN
Well, as news dispatches have related, that's what capitol police were apprehensive of following the examination, by Senator Robert M. La Follette's inquiry concerning civil rights violations, of witnesses from the Harlan county (Ky.) coal area.

The capitol police didn't find any firearms. The witnesses apparently had the good taste to leave their prosecu-

"shooting irons" at their hotels, or somewhere.

But the police did find holsters. Need I say that, in referring to such a situation as edifying, I speak "sarcastically"?

OLD FEUDS

How such conditions can continue to exist in the midst of a supposedly civilized country is puzzling.

They're not new. Feuds have been known to prevail in Harlan county (Ky.) probably back into the early 1800's.

I investigated it a few years ago.

Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky described it to me as a survival of primitive Americanism. The Kentucky mountaineers, he pointed out, are mighty purely Anglo-Saxon. He conceded that they are annoyingly homicidal—not alone relative to labor issues, but generally.

Good folk, nevertheless, he reasoned.

Eastern Kentucky's judges and sheriffs have been elsewhere and civilized—but it's only a thin veneer, the senator commented.

And he wasn't without considerable sympathy with the first Anglo-Saxons in his state, he admitted—not with homicide, but with the people's general psychology.

IN CAROLINA

The ruling class in the south can be perfectly lovely.

Half a decade ago I visited the Carolinas, just after the police chief had been slain in a labor riot.

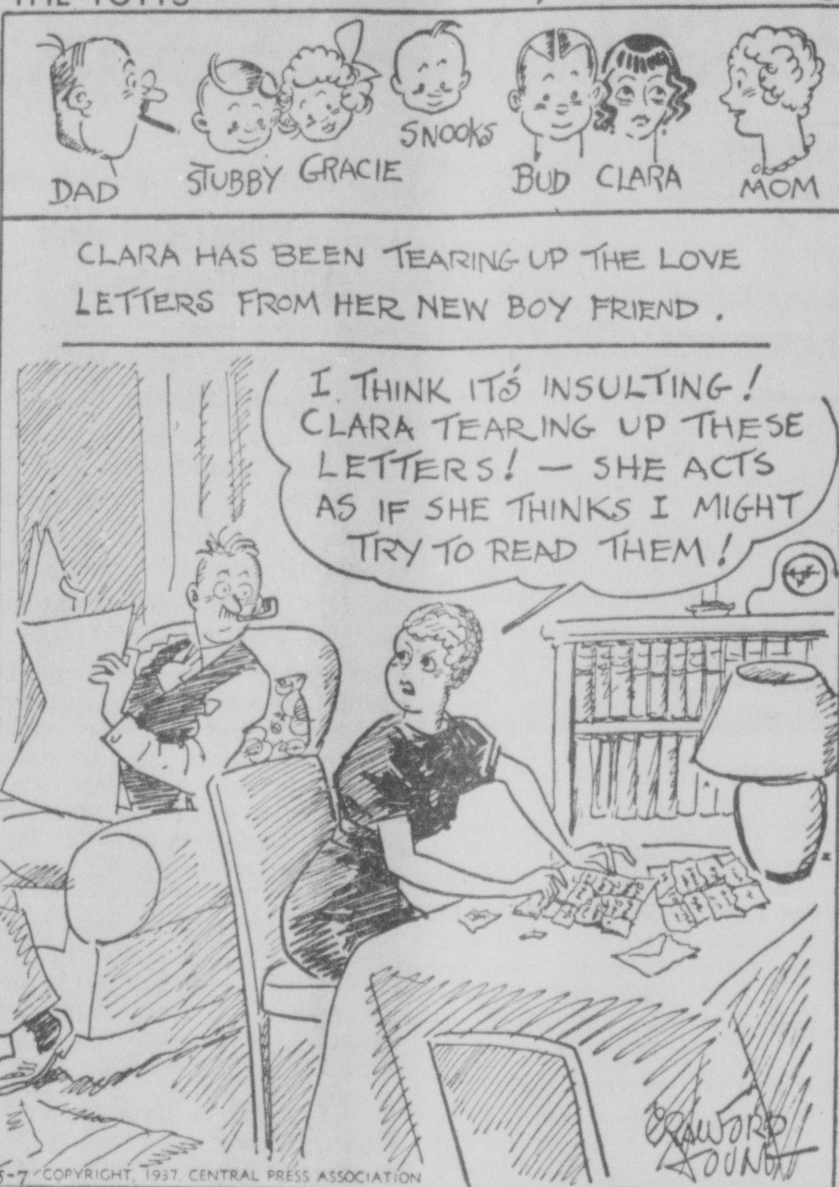

Getting off my train, I went straight to the secretary of the local chamber of commerce, Joe Wray. "I've come to you first," I said. And he took me initially to the jail, to see the imprisoned rioters. He thought I should hear their side, to begin with.

They tell me I wouldn't receive the same consideration in Harlan county (Ky.).

If Harlan, Breathitt or other adjoining counties (Ky.) feel otherwise, they can say so.

New Ways For Old in Blood Transfusions

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
NOT VERY LONG ago I was waiting in Ann Arbor for a bus to go to Detroit, when a young man picked me up in an automobile and offered to carry me in for a small sum. On the way in we got into conversation, and among other things he told me that he was able to augment his income from time to time by giving blood for transfusion to patients in the hospital. He was one of a large group of so-called professional donors who are available in nearly any large medical center.

In New York, London, Paris and Berlin, at least, all of these donors are grouped in a society under a board of medical control. The bureau has available at all times suitable donors for immediate transfusion of patients under the care of hospitals, and physicians who are members of the organization. They are given a fee of $7 for each 100 c.c. of blood, and are not used again until a period of time has expired corresponding in weeks to the number of 100 c.c. amounts of blood drawn (one week for each 100 c.c.). Regular laboratory and medical re-examinations of the donors are made. They are instructed by lectures and assigned lessons in the principles and details of blood transfusion, and their lives are so supervised that patients are completely protected. Similar organizations may be expected before long of those who can give convalescent serum for diseases such as infantile paralysis, in which convalescent serum is beneficial.

New Development

This is quite a new development in medical practice. Blood transfusions have been used for a number of years. In fact, they were started several hundred years ago, but were not successful because the principles were not understood. The blood of the lower animals was used to be transfused into man, which is dangerous and useless. It was found also that the blood of certain individuals did not mix well with others. For this reason, donors and recipients have to be typed. The young man with whom I was riding knew exactly what type he was and with what type patients his blood could be used.

This is a great improvement on the time when, if a transfusion was to be given, everybody in the family was hurriedly called together and typing proceeded until the proper one was found. Inasmuch as transfusion is, in many instances, an emergency remedy, it is highly important that proper donors should be available at a moment's notice. Time lost in selecting a donor from a crowd of unknowns may mean the difference between life and death.

Transfusion is used for so many things now, and is so routine a part of hospital practice, that such organization is quite necessary.

CHAPTER 44

JUST AS Jacqueline felt that she could not draw another breath when Joplin's huge hands began to squeeze her throat, the pressure was relaxed and she sank into a limp heap on the floor.

"That's what you'll get—see?" came Joplin's voice.

Jacqueline attempted no reply, and after a moment the man went on.

"Listen," he said. "That's what you'll get an' then you'll go overboard. Twenty-five hundred dollars I'll get for doing it. Get me?" He stirred her with his foot. "Get me?" he repeated. "That's the offer the gentleman made—$2,500 to put you out and keep me mouth shut."

Jacqueline gazed at him with horrified eyes.

"You were offered $2,500 to—get rid of me?"

"Ah."

"By Colonel Lutman?"

"No names," said Joplin. "Incoherent? Turned it down, I did. Killing ain't my line. Twenty-five dollars a week, I said, an' I'll keep 'er till she pegs out—but no killing. That's me. Gentle, I am."

Jacqueline's fingers touched her throat.

"But no larks—see?" added Joplin. "No hollering. No whistling. No nothing. Twenty-five dollars is $25, and I ain't losing it. Any his hands again and moved them toward her throat. "Get me? And then overboard you go. Twenty-five hundred dollars—see?"

He turned, lumbered to the door, and paused.

"Get me?"

Jacqueline nodded.

"Well, that's 'nuff, then."

The girl climbed back into the bunk, lay down and closed her eyes.

Mrs. Smith was not in the best of moods. To begin with, dawn, when she opened her eyes, greeted her with a reminder that the pleasant future to which her thoughts had lately flown as soon as she awoke in the morning, no longer existed as a possibility. Jacqueline, with her blunt refusal to marry Jim Asson, had completely shattered all prospect of a comfortable, carefree life to which her mother had been looking forward, and the future now simply would not bear looking into.

Mrs. Smith, with an uneasy feeling that fate was about to deal her another blow, set down the cup of tea and proceeded to investigate. The fact that Jacqueline's pajamas were not in their case on the pillow caused her a quick stab of fear and sent her hurrying to the dressing table. And there she received another stab. Brushes, comb and hand mirror were missing. She crossed to the wardrobe and peered inside. Several frocks, she recalled, were not there; and when the chest of drawers revealed that most of her daughter's underclothes had disappeared, there seemed to Mrs. Smith to be nothing for it but to believe the incredible. Jacqueline, without a word of explanation or warning, had gone away. But why? And where?

It struck Mrs. Smith with sudden devastating force that Charles Stuckey might well be the cause of all the disasters that had overtaken her since she had so satisfactorily arranged her own and Jacqueline's future. And the more she thought about it, the more feasible that explanation became. Jacqueline obviously liked the man. Even at Cobenzl, when he had worn those preposterous plus-fours and that ridiculous hat, she had been far more charming to him than she had ever been to Jim Asson, and it had been quite evident that the Stuckey person had been very much attracted to her. She remembered now that during the journey to England Jacqueline had taken no notice of Jim and had spent most of the time talking to Stuckey.

That morning at the office, too—the way Jacqueline had insisted on speaking to him alone, and the way Stuckey had backed her up. She should have realized then that there was something afoot and have refused to stand any nonsense. They probably hadn't discussed the marriage settlement at all—had just got rid of the others on that pretext so that they could have a little time together and lay their plans.

In moments of crisis Mrs. Smith was rarely at a loss to know what she should do. Long experience of recurrent financial crises in Continental hotels had made her both resolute and quick-witted, and in this crisis she decided instantly what must be done. She must go to Stuckey's office. That was obviously the first step. If he really had married Jacqueline, he would have to listen to what she had to say to him, and answer a few questions. Mrs. Smith felt that as Jacqueline's mother she had a right to know what sort of an income Charles Stuckey made, and what sort of an allowance her daughter was to receive.

Mrs. Smith as a rule could be relied upon to keep her head in an emergency, but in the present one she so far lost her accustomed poise as to forget the depleted state of the family exchequer and traveled to Rotherhithe by taxi. But long before the cab stopped outside the office of Messrs. Stuckey & Stuckey she was quite herself again. As she entered the office and Mr. Bells rose to attend to her, she was dignity personified and self-possession incarnate.

"Is Mr. Stuckey in?"

"He is, madam," replied Mr. Bells.

"Ah," said Mrs. Smith, as though the fact of Mr. Stuckey's presence caused her supreme satisfaction. "Then please tell him, my good man, that I wish to see him."

"Mr. Stuckey is engaged, madam," began Mr. Bells, but Mrs. Smith cut him short.

"Mr. Stuckey will see me," she said. "Tell him it is Mrs. Smith."

Then, as Mr. Bells hesitated, she crossed to the door of Charles' private room and grasped the knob. "There's a taxi waiting at the door," she said. "Please pay the

"We will have no pretense, if you please, Mr. Stuckey. I have a right to know, and I intend to know. What has become of my daughter?"

"Hadn't you better explain, Mrs. Smith?" suggested Charles. "Jacqueline is not here."

"My dear Mr. Stuckey, I hardly expected that she would be. And I can see that she isn't here. I am asking you where she is."

"I'm afraid I can't help you," began Charles, but again she cut him short.

"Oh yes, you can, Mr. Stuckey. I have an intuition that you can tell me all I want to know. Where is Jacqueline?"

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Smith, but I have no idea where Jacqueline is. The last time I saw her was here in this office—when she came to sign the deed."

"Ah!" said Mrs. Smith significantly. "That's what you naturally would say. But it's not the truth, and you'll do no good by telling lies, Mr. Stuckey."

"Really, Mrs. Smith!" exclaimed

Man-Tailored Suit

BLACK AND gray is the color scheme chosen by Kay Francis, picture star, to wear this spring.

Her suit is a handsome man-tailored gray sharkskin, and her accessories are a black blouse, brightened with a gay pin at the throat, black pumps, bag and gloves, and a gray hat the color of the suit.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Ora Ora Pontius, Mrs. W. S. Gearhart and Mrs. C. D. Closson were appointed members of a nominating committee to prepare a panel of officers for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Nicholas as chairman of the program committee, then introduced Mrs. Leon Van Vleet, who offered a program of music by her piano students. The first number was a solo by Miss Vera Jean List, "Sunbeams and Roses", by Bliss. A duet, "The Camel Train", by Baines, was played by Miss Eleanor McAbee and Charles Mowery, Jr.; "Rapid Fire" by Duvernoy, was played by Miss Ethyl May. Glenn McCoy and Mrs. Van Vleet played a Duet, "March".

"The Tap Dancer" was the number chosen by Miss Doris Leist and Miss Eleanor Dreisbach and Mrs. Van Vleet continued the program with a duet, "Feathered Songsters". Miss Betty Weiler gave a solo, "Sparkling Cascades", by Williams. The next number on the program was a piano quartet, "Valse Lorraine," by Missa, played by Miss Christine Greeno, Charles Mowery, Miss Betty Weiler and Miss Doris Leist. The program was ended with a piano solo, "Music Among the Pines" by Wymon, offered by Miss Eyer Dreisbach.

An unusually large crowd attended the luncheon given at noon by the Ladies Aid society.

Following a short business meeting of the Aid society at 1 o'clock, the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the church held its regular meeting. The session opened with singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name", and the forming of the prayer circle. Reports of the branch meeting in New Holland were given by Mrs. Charles Gerhardt and Mrs. W. T. Ulm, respectively. Mrs. Fannie Kirkpatrick gave the Stewardship lesson. The devotional topic, "The Life" was discussed by Mrs. S. G. Rader and Mrs. Gerhardt. The program was based on the Mystery Box Questions, from the Missionary Magazine, "The Friend". The subjects discussed were Citizenship, World Peace, and Temperance. Those taking part in the discussion were Mrs. Fred Nicholas, Mrs. Fannie Kirkpatrick, Mrs. W. T. Ulm, Mrs. Gerhardt, Mrs. Mack Noggle, Miss Sylvia Brunner, Miss Anne Kirkwood, and Miss Anna Grimes. Mrs. Mack Noggle sang one solo, "My Task". The meeting closed with the benediction.

POMPOON, OTHERS WATCH

Hunch Players Supporting Heefly as Surprise

By HENRY McEMORE
LOUISVILLE, May 7 (UP)—

Louisville was flooded again today—with the golden, negotiable dollars of those who like War Admiral in the 63rd running of the Kentucky derby.

The son of Man O' War—ol' big red himself—stood at 8 to 5 in the betting marts and was a cinch to be hammered down to even money by post time tomorrow afternoon.

War Admiral had no reason to feel proud over his position as favorite, however, because it was given to him in the form of a left-handed compliment. He is getting the play because of his rivals' weakness.

Outside of the Admiral there isn't a three-year-old in the field who hasn't displayed his flaws in public. The Admiral may display his tomorrow, but there is no getting around the fact that right now he is the only solid horse in the bunch that will shoot for the $50,000 prize. That is, off three-year-old form, and that's the only form the smart boys and girls car about. The Admiral won the

ROY WEATHERLY CLUBS INDIANS TO .500 PERCH

CLEVELAND, May 7 (UP)—Roy Weatherly, one of the American league's freshman stars of a year ago but a distinct disappointment early this season, today had indicated he was coming out of his slump.

The little outfielder smashed out a home run with one man on base in the eighth inning yesterday to give the Cleveland Indians a 4 to 2 triumph over the Washington Senators.

The victory enabled the Indians to climb back to the .500 mark as they prepared to open a series with the champion New York Yankees. Denny Galehouse was to hurl for the Indians.

Chesapeake in Maryland in impressive fashion, and his workouts have been of the highest order.

Hot Then Cold
All the others have blown hot and cold, Pompoon particularly. The winter book favorite looked okay in the Paumonok, died in the stretch in the Wood Memorial and has been hustling beautifully in his workouts.

Reaping Reward was licked in the derby "trial" but has been practicing like a champion. On the other hand, Dellor, Reaping Reward's conqueror in the prep race, has been sluggish in trials.

Hunch players were going for the Three D stable's Heefly, a handsome article which has been scorching the track in daybreak trials. But those who are supposed to know, think Heefly is strictly an exhibitionist, and will fold when the running is for keeps. Boiled down, the situation strictly is this: on three-year-old performance War Admiral is a shoo-in; on two-year-old performance there are half a dozen or more colts fully capable of winning. The question is: can they carry the load for a mile and a quarter with stake weights on their backs?

Sixteen or seventeen will go to the post, and among those absent will be Col. Bradley's Brooklyn, a hot winter book baby, and Milky Way's Case Ace. They were definitely scratched yesterday, and more will come today.

Weather Uncertain
The weather will decide the fate of several nominees, and right now the weathers unpredictable. It cleared up yesterday and was bright and nice today, but the weather man says he has a feeling it will come up mud on the morning, and if it does, one of the most wide open races in years will be thrown straight into the laps of the gods.

CANZONERI MAY CONCLUDE FIGHT CAREER TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 7 (UP)—

Tony Canzoneri, the old man of the prize-ring, seeks his third title in the lightweight division tonight with a fighting heart that keeps him going long after father time told him to quit.

The swarthy little fighter, who has won and lost the 135-pound crown three times, meets Champion Lou Ambers in a 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden. The betting is 3 to 1 that Tony loses and finally hangs up the gloves that have carried him to four world titles in more than a dozen years ago.

A crowd of perhaps 15,000 will see the fight and practically everyone will be rooting for the little man whose name will go down alongside of boxing's immortals. But few think he will win because everything is against Tony.

The challenger is 32, he was had over 150 fights, his main asset is a stiff punch and a heart that doesn't know the meaning of the word quit. Ambers is only 22; he was the stamina to go 15 rounds without tiring; he doesn't punch hard but his stinging, cutting blows land often.

GRISSOM HALTS NEW YORK TEAM WITH CALCIMINE

BOSTON, Mass., May 7 (UP)—

Victor in their first series of the year the Cincinnati Reds moved in here today to open an engagement with the Boston Bees.

The Reds took their initial series yesterday when they defeated the New York Giants 4 to 0. The triumph gave Manager Charley Dressen renewed hope that his charges had finally settled down and were to play the type of ball predicted in the pre-season forecast.

Lee Grissom, the husky rookie southpaw, pitched superb ball against the Giants to give the Reds their third triumph in 12 starts. Grissom limited the New Yorkers to four hits.

The Red rookie was in trouble only twice. He walked the first man to face him in the seventh and eighth innings, but then bore down to escape without damage. Grissom's control was much better than in his previous two starts and he passed but four men.

Another of the National league's rookie stars, Cliff Melton, opposed Grissom at the start of the contest.

DETROIT CLIMBS INTO TIE WITH NEW YORK YANKS

NEW YORK, May 7 (UP)—

The Yankees had company atop the American league today. Deadlocked with the world champions for first place were the Detroit Tigers and the Boston Red Sox.

Detroit created the 3-way tie by knocking off New York yesterday, 12-6, after losing the first two games of the series. Nobody has paid much attention to the Red Sox since they nose dived to the sixth place last season. But the Red Sox won their fifth game in six starts yesterday by nailing out the St. Louis Browns, 2-1.

About This And That In Many Sports

Five Ohio-Owned Horses in Derby

Five Ohio-owned horses were named for this year's Kentucky derby—Numerically, it is the best representation in years—With the original field of 103 diminished to about 20, four of the five still are in the lists—Scenesifter and Fencing, trained by Earl Sande, former mighty jockey, and owned by Colonel Maxwell Howard of Dayton, are important contenders

--He also named Gloom Buster, which has been withdrawn....

Bernard F., owned by I. J. Collins of Lancaster, is another major candidate--The fourth Ohio horse still in the running is Alubulle, owned by A. C. Ernst of Cleveland

--Bernard F. is all but an Ohio-bred horse--His sire and dam both were owned by Mr. Collins--He was foaled in Kentucky and brought when only a few weeks old to his owner's Fairfield Stock Farms near Lancaster--He made his first start last May at Beulah Park when he finished second to an Ohio-bred filly, Daryanna--Bernard F. recently won the Tropical Park Special, closing three-year old feature of the Florida season--He is an exceptionally fast horse... Scenesifter and Fencing were purchased from J. E. Widener by Colonel Howard during the winter in Florida--Scenesifter won over the mile and one-eighth route in but a fraction of a second over the world's record--Fencing recently won the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland, defeating among others, Brooklyn and Billionaire from the stable of Col. E. R. Bradley--Off their records, Bernard F., Scenesifter and Fencing are prime contenders for the classic of next Saturday, and Alubulle has shown some promising form

--Last important contention provided by an Ohio-owned horse was in 1928 when Mispeter, property of L. J. Marks of Columbus, finished second to the great Reigh Count--Mispeter led into the home stretch in that derby but could not withstand Reigh Count's closing drive... Back in 1922, John Finn, owned by George Baker of Dayton, came to the derby in poor condition, but managed to finish third--Morvich won that derby and Bet Mosie was second--John Finn developed boils on his withers the day prior to the race and, ran the full mile and one-quarter with the saddle cloth chafing them rawer at every stride--Sound, he might have won***

ACCEPT ALL GIFTS

IF YOUR PARTNER has made such a bad bid that he had to excuse himself and leave the table, you have a perfect alibi for going down at your contract. But if you keep a stiff upper lip, you may still manage to make it if the opponents display a certain amount of genius in helping you. Be prepared at such a time to recognize and accept all gifts.

A small club from dummy to the second trick was ducked by East, letting the singleton K score. The spade 2 was lost immediately to the J of West, who didn't like the heart situation and was afraid to lead into a diamond tenace, so preferred the club Q. Mr. Rothschild led this with his spade 7, overtook the heart J with the Q, finessed the diamond Q and led the heart K, drawing the diamond from dummy. East trumped this with the spade 6 and returned the club Ace, which was ruffed with the spade 8. The spade Ace and diamond Ace were now played, the diamond 2 ruffed in dummy and the club J furnished sufficient tricks to make the contract.

BELL TELEPHONE CO. TO SPEND $200,000 IN CINCINNATI AND CHILLICOTHE

LONG DISTANCE CABLE PLANNED DURING SUMMER

New Repeater Station to Be Installed in Ross County Seat

TO START IN SEPTEMBER

Two Cities to be Links in Circuit to 35 Cities

Long distance facilities north and south through Cincinnati will be increased by a $200,000 program to construct a new underground telephone line between Cincinnati and Chillicothe and a new telephone repeater station at Chillicothe. The program was announced Friday by officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone company.

The program will be started this summer and finished early next year. The first step will be the construction of the new repeater station at Chillicothe. Bids on the building will be asked this month. The building will be owned jointly by the Ohio Bell company and the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Cable to Cost $108,000

The total expenditure in Chillicothe will be $92,000, including the cost of land, the new building, and the equipment it will house. The Chillicothe-Cincinnati long distance cable will cost approximately $108,000.

The new repeater station will be an important link in Ohio's telephone system. Through it will pass 35 key long distance circuits connecting points in Kentucky, West Virginia, and southern Ohio with cities to the north. Cities served by these north-south facilities include Cincinnati, Dayton, Gallipolis, Ironton, Jackson, Portsmouth, Waverly, Chillicothe, Circleville, Ashland, Ky., and Charleston and Huntington in West Virginia. Calls from smaller intermediate points will be transmitted through the new Chillicothe repeater station.

The new Chillicothe-Cincinnati long distance cable will be buried the entire distance between the two cities. It will tie into the Columbus-Cincinnati cable a mile east of Circleville, providing new facilities from Chillicothe to the state capital.

To Start in September

Placing of the cable will be started in September and completed in February, in time for the establishment of service in the new Chillicothe repeater station.

Remarkable Photo—Hindenburg Breaking in Two

This Central Press picture was taken at the exact moment that the dirigible Hindenburg hit the ground in flames at Lakehurst, N. J. The huge ship is seen breaking in two.

DIRIGIBLE TOLL CLIMBS TO 32

Germany, was awakened from his sleep to be told of the disaster. On his fishing yacht off the coast of Texas, the word was flashed to President Roosevelt who immediately cabled to Hitler the sympathy and condolence of the American people.

News of the tragedy went also to Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the Zeppelin company at Friedrichshafen, the greatest living authority on lighter-than-air craft, the man whose flights have made his name synonymous with dirigibles. He was stunned for an instant, then said that the Zeppelin would come back from this disaster and justify his faith and work. He probably will come to America to investigate personally.

In Lakehurst, while bodies still were being removed from the wreckage, officials and experts were assembling for the inevitable investigation.

Luther's Last Task

Hans Luther, the little, white-haired German ambassador, flew here from Washington to perform what probably will be his last important task for his country in the United States—he is soon to retire. He began immediately to question members of the Hindenburg's crew for his report to his government.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, a survivor of the navy's Shenandoah disaster, one of America's leading dirigible authorities, and commandant of the Lakehurst station, had been an eye-witness and he too was questioning survivors.

The exact cause of the disaster was not known and may never be known. One thing seemed certain—that a spark of electricity set off the Hindenburg's hydrogen gas—one of the most explosive of gases when mixed with air. This spark might have come from one of her four Diesel engines swung in gondolas along her side. Or it might have come from accumulated static electricity set off when her soggy landing rope touched the ground.

Public to Cooperate

Rosendahl explained to his superiors that there had been no

damage to naval property and that "it was not believed that there were other than minor injuries to any navy personnel." He urged the public to stay away from the reservation which had been closed and was being patrolled by soldiers. A member of the ground crew died after the report had been filed.

In Washington, the embattled little group in congress and the navy department who have maintained their faith in dirigibles despite the Macon, the Akron, and the Shenandoah disasters acknowledged that their hopes that America would again build dirigibles for military purposes had died in the wreckage of the Hindenburg. The great ship and her older and more famous sister, the Graf Zeppelin, which makes regular commercial runs to South America, had been the chief supports of their arguments that dirigibles were safe, were militarily effective, and that this country had not given them sufficient trial.

Took Air Tuesday

The Hindenburg left Frankfurt, Germany, Tuesday on the first of this season's flights to the United States. Last summer she had cruised back and forth over the north Atlantic, carrying hundreds of passengers without the slightest mishap.

Off Newfoundland she encountered headwinds, and she came down the New England coast yesterday 12 hours late. In mid afternoon she sailed over Manhattan, proud, stable, the queen of the skies. At 5 p. m. (EST) she appeared over the Lakehurst station, her American terminal, where the civilian ground crew, was waiting. A thunder storm came up suddenly and with it, blinding rain. She soared off to await its end.

At 6 p. m. she came again over the field. The rain by now was a drizzle. Around the hangar awaited several hundred civilians, many sight-seers, but among them were relatives and friends of her passengers, also the American friends of members of the crews.

The crowd was thrilled by her. She appeared tearfully beautiful as her great bulk settled closer and closer to earth. The crowd could see the passengers at the windows, waving and shouting; it heard the commands rumbling down from the control cabin through megaphones. Trail ropes dropped out of her tail. Another rope dropped out of her nose. Now she was 200 feet from the crowd. Suddenly a shrill scream broke out from the crowd of onlookers. A woman had seen a puff of flame appear at the top of the ship toward the rear, then race along toward its nose. For an instant, the silence was so absolute that the rippling of flames was audible. Then screams and shouts and hysterical weeping lifted toward the ship which by now was shooting up a great column of flame and smoke. There was a terrific explosion and for miles around window panes shook and bodies came hurtling out of the ship, falling among the spectators and ground crew.

The instinct for self preservation seized the persons on ground at the same instant. It looked as though the great mass of flame was falling directly on them, and they scattered, some shouting in their terror, in all directions. Then courage returned to some and they turned back. The nose of the Hindenburg had gone up, her tail down, and she was buckling a little just aft of her middle where the column of fire now was centered. More bodies came pummeling down—passengers and crew who were saving themselves. Then, with a crash, the Hindenburg hit the ground, enmeshed in flames from one end to the other.

Figures Appear

Grotesque, piteous figures appeared from the flames. There was a man entirely nude, running as though possessed. The explosion had ripped every stitch from his body. Another naked man—another and another. There was a man whose hair had been burned off—a woman and a man bleeding profusely from face wounds—a man whose face was raw, whose flesh hung in little appendages from tiny strips of flesh.

Then a bleeding figure staggered from the fire. It was clad in uniform that had been torn and ripped. Its face was begrimed and cut. Its blue eyes stared strangely. It was Captain Lehmann, a dirigible captain whose experience went back to the World War, next to Eckener in the Zeppelin works.

"I can't understand how it happened," he said shakily, addressing no one. "I can't understand how it..."

He repeated his statement over and over. He was carried off to the hospital in Lakewood.

They picked up the body of Captain Pruss from the field. He was badly hurt.

CARTER ASKS OUSTER

Raid on Restaurant Brings
Charges of Abuse

"A frame-up to halt my attempt to break up gambling," was the statement Police Chief William McCrady made late Thursday after a complaint was filed with Safety Director Charles Caskey asking the chief's dismissal. McCrady made no other statement about the charges.

Safety Director Caskey said no date would be set for a hearing "for the present."

Witnesses Questioned

"At present I'm not going to do anything about it," he declared. "Several witnesses have been questioned about the affair and testified in favor of the chief. There is nothing to substantiate the charges."

"The chief took me out to question persons just in case anything did come up. Threats had been made about it. I have some details to look up before anything is done."

Carter Files Charge

The complaint, filed by Charles Carter, E. Main street restaurant operator, charges that on the morning of April 25 McCrady entered his restaurant and conducted himself in a manner unbecoming an officer in performance of his duty by using blasphemous and abusive language.

SALT CREEK GIRL CUT, BRUISED IN TWO-CAR WRECK

Miss Virginia Poling, Saltcreek township, was treated Friday morning for cuts and bruises on her right elbow that she suffered when the auto in which she was riding with Marvin Hartman, Tarleton, figured in a collision with a car driven by Wendell Boyer, N. Court street.

The accident occurred on E. Main street between Court and Pickaway streets.

KUHN AND EBLIN SENT TO PRISON

Two Caldwell, Scott and Lenora Dawson Deny Indictments

Two sentences were imposed by Judge J. W. Adkins, Friday morning, in the indictment of persons indicted by the county grand jury last Tuesday.

James Kuhn, 19, Weldon avenue, pleaded guilty to three charges of forgery. He was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory for a term of from one to 20 years. The sentences in the three cases will run concurrently. The charges were based on checks for $8, $5.50 and $3.50 issued on March 25, 23 and 20, respectively.

George Eblin, 23, Island road, admitted breaking and entering the Norfolk & Western freight station on March 14. He was ordered to serve one to 15 years in the Ohio penitentiary, one-half of the time to be spent at hard labor. Eblin told the judge he had previously served two terms in the reformatory.

Caldwell Enters Denial

William Caldwell, 29, Wayne township, indicted on a charge of shooting with intent to wound Edward Hamilton, 32, also of Wayne township, during a gun duel, denied the charge. His bond was fixed at $1,000. He asked the court to appoint an attorney to represent him.

Woodrow Caldwell, 21, Circleville R. F. D., denied a burglary and larceny charge involving the theft of $5 last Feb. 6 from the Shelby and McCrady lunch room. Arraignment of Floyd Gaines, 19, of Columbus, formerly of Circleville, indicted on the same charge, was delayed until Monday at 10 a. m. due to the absence of his attorney.

Oscar Scott, city, indicted on two statutory charges, pleaded not guilty. Lenora Dawson, city, denied a charge of forgery.

Assignment of the cases for trial will be made early next week.

H.O.L.C. SUES FOR FORECLOSURE OF TWO PROPERTIES

Two foreclosure actions were filed in common pleas court Thursday by the Home Owners Loan Co.

One of the suits, filed against James R. Beckett, and others, asks $2,114.56 and foreclosure of a mortgage on real estate in Commercial Point. The other against Charles A. and Melvina Fowler, Ashville, asks $890.53 and foreclosure of a mortgage on a lot in Ashville.

ESHELMAN FIRM SUES FOR $1,335 RESULT OF TEST

John W. Eshelman & Sons filed suit in common pleas court Thursday against the Plews Puffed Products Co. seeking $1,335.64.

The petition says that in the fall of 1935 the companies entered into an agreement whereby the defendant company agreed to demonstrate a process of puffing corn for a dog food product. The action explains the plaintiff was to install certain equipment in its plant, and the defendant agreed to reimburse the local company for any expense it might incur for the demonstration.

The local firm installed a pump and necessary fittings and hardware used in installing the equipment, the action states, at a cost of $1,335.64. It charges the demonstration was unsatisfactory.

NINE TRAGEDIES WRECK LIGHTER THAN AIR CRAFT

BY UNITED PRESS

Destruction of the German dirigible Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N. J., brought to nine the total of major lighter-than-air ship disasters since the World War. Five of the tragedies have occurred in the United States.

The list:
April 25, 1921—The ZR2, awaiting delivery to the United States, exploded in mid-air over Hull, England, killing 42.

Feb. 21, 1922—The Italian airship Roma struck a high tension wire at Norfolk, Va., killing 31.

Dec. 31, 1923—The French airship Dixmude fell into the sea off the coast of Sicily, killing 52.

Sept. 3, 1925—The Shenandoah, pride of the U. S. navy, broke in half while fighting a storm near Cambridge, Ohio. Fourteen were killed.

May 25, 1928—The Italian dirigible Italia, carrying Gen. Umberto Nobile and a party of explorers, crashed on a projected flight to the North Pole. Nobile and most of his companions escaped. Eight were killed.

Oct. 5, 1930—The huge British airship R-101 crashed near Beauvais, France, on a flight to India, killing 46.

April 4, 1933—The U. S. navy dirigible Akron, bucking a severe storm, crashed into the Atlantic off the New Jersey coast near Barnegat lightship. Seventy-three were killed, including Rear Admiral William Moffett, chief of aeronautics.

Feb. 15, 1935—The U. S. navy dirigible Macon crashed into the Pacific off Point Sur, California. Two were killed.

ECKENER SAYS SABOTAGE MAY BE FIRE CAUSE

LONDON, May 7.—(UP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener was quoted by the Evening Standard today as saying he believed it "very likely" that sabotage caused the wreck of the Hindenburg.

At the same time Webb Miller, United Press war correspondent who made the first flight with the Hindenburg to the United States last year, disclosed that he received before the flight an anonymous warning not to make the trip because something would happen to the ship when it arrived in the United States.

Eckener was quoted: "It is very likely the disaster is due to an act of sabotage. I have repeatedly received anonymous threatening letters, especially warning me not to land the Hindenburg at Lakehurst. It is quite impossible that the explosion was due to lightning as the airship was equipped with the most modern preventive apparatus."

WALLY STUDIES INVITATIONS TO HER MARRIAGE

MONTS, France, May 7.—(UP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson worked today on the list of those to be invited to her wedding with the Duke of Windsor. It was understood that the invitations would be sent only at the last moment in order to keep secret the date selected for the ceremony.

The duke is reported to have telephoned his youngest, favorite brother, the Duke of Kent, last night and told him the date. Kent is expected to be best man at the wedding.

The Duke and Mrs. Simpson made their first public appearance since their reunion today when they motored to the little town of Semblancey 10 miles from Monts.

They lunched at La Mer Hamard inn. Mrs. Simpson wore a blue hat and dress. She wore no rings. The duke was hatless.

CARS SLIGHTLY DAMAGED IN NORTHEAST ACCIDENT

Autos driven by Roy Morton, Portsmouth, and Fred Egan, Laurelville, were slightly damaged Friday morning in a traffic mishap on N. Court street near Northridge road. No one was injured.

Egan told Police Chief William McCrady his car bumped into the rear of Morton's car when Morton stopped suddenly to avoid striking a car making a turn.

DEBT GOES OVER HIGHEST FIGURE PLANNED BY F. D.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(UP)—The national debt rose today beyond the $35,026,000,000 limit fixed by President Roosevelt.

While congress struggled with economy and the nation prepared for higher taxes, the treasury statement for today revealed that the nation's debt reached the unprecedented high mark of $35,039,956,385.49, on May 5.

The increase figure represented an upward movement of $52,052,439.07 from the previous day, resulting principally from another step in the treasury's borrowing program of $50,000,000 weekly.

LACK OF WORK REDUCES W.P.A. PAYROLL FIGURE

The weekly employment report of W. P. A. shows a total of 284 persons on the payroll, a reduction of 13 under the previous week.

During the last week, 12 workers have been laid off due to lack of projects. More reductions will be necessary in the near future.

The Deercreek township road project has been completed. Some of the workers were transferred to other projects. Others had to be discharged.

PRESIDENT SENDS NOTE OF REGRET TO NAZI LEADER

GALVESTON, Tex., May 7.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today expressed to Reichsfuehrer Adolph Hitler of Germany "my deepest sympathy for the tragic loss of life" in the Hindenburg disaster at Lakehurst, N. J., yesterday.

The message, which was addressed to Hitler, said: "I have just learned of the disaster to the airship Hindenburg and offer you and the German people my deepest sympathy for the tragic loss of life which resulted from this unexpected and unhappy event."

News of the disaster was received by the president aboard the U. S. S. Potomac off Port Aransas, Tex., in the Gulf of Mexico where he is on a vacation fishing trip. The president spent yesterday working on official mail.

An earlier message sent to temporary headquarters here by Mr. Roosevelt, said:

"I am distressed to hear of the tragedy of the Hindenburg and extend my deepest sympathy to the families of passengers, officers and crew who lost their lives."

HELP IS ASKED IN SEARCH FOR WESLEYAN CO-ED

DELAWARE, May 7.—(UP)—The parents of Ruth Baumgardner, 21, brown-haired Ohio Wesleyan university senior who has been missing since Tuesday night, asked authorities to extend their search for her to nearby cities today.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baumgardner of Lakewood came here to aid in the search as soon as they were notified of the co-ed's disappearance, one month before she would have been graduated. They asked that hotels in Columbus and other nearby cities be checked.

"In her last few letters Ruth has said often that she was tired, very tired," Mrs. Baumgardner said.

Baumgardner said he feared his daughter may have had a nervous collapse "from trying to do too much." College officials said her scholastic work had been "good."

SCIOTO PROJECT DELAY FORECAST BY VIC DONAHEY

Further delay in the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy project was seen Friday following a report from Senator Vic Donahey that Wil. Whittington, chairman of the house flood control committee, intended to see the president on his return from his fishing trip and urge him to reconsider his decision to let flood control projects "slide" during the current session of congress.

HINDENBURG BURNS AT LAKEHURST, N. J.

HUNDREDS AT PORT SEE DISASTER

Dr. Eckener, Other German Authorities to Leave for America on Steamer, Friday

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., May 7.—(UP)—The Hindenburg death toll reached 32 today, while lighter-than-air experts gathered around the wreckage of the former queen of the skies to ascertain what caused her to crash in flames as she was completing her first voyage of the season across the north Atlantic.

German Ambassador Hans Luther came flying to the scene from Washington, and it was understood that Claude Swanson, secretary of the navy, and Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce, would come here today. In addition to Luther's investigation in behalf of the German government, it seemed likely that an official naval board of inquiry would be formed. A German committee was ready to sail at noon for the United States.

Source of Spark Sought
It seemed certain that a spark of electricity set off the hydrogen gas in the greatest dirigible ever built, but what generated that spark may never be known. It might have been an accumulation of static or a spark from one of her four Diesel engines.

While experts examined her still hot wreckage, doctors and nurses ministered to the wounded and dying in hospitals in Lakewood. One passenger—Irene Bohner of Mexico City—and a member of the ground crew—Allen Hagaman—died early today. Seventeen of the passengers were killed, and 15 of the crew. In all 28 bodies had been accounted for—26 having been taken from the wreckage.

Hagaman was the only one of the ground crew of 150 civilians and sailors to suffer fatal injuries, though six others were hurt.

The Hindenburg carried 26 passengers and a crew of 61. Of the 63 survivors, approximately 50 were injured or burned. Three—including her commander, Captain Max Pruss—were in critical condition and their lives were despaired for.

The disaster seemed to spell the end of any further military experimentation with dirigibles in America and official exponents of the big ships in Washington saw all their hopes disappear in the flames that consumed the Hindenburg. But in Germany, the dirigible men talked stubbornly of yet larger and faster Zeppelins.

Chairman Royal S. Copeland of the senate commerce committee sent Col. Harold E. Hartly, an aviation expert, to Lakehurst to begin a preliminary investigation. Maj. R. W. Schroeder, assistant director of the bureau of air commerce, was to arrive this morning. The department of commerce also ordered Fred D. Fagg here from New York. Chairman Morris Shephard of the senate military affairs committee said his committee would consider a congressional investigation of the tragedy.

Ready to Land
The proud flag ship of the German dirigible service—and one of the three dirigibles remaining after a long series of disasters since the World War—was preparing to land last night after her voyage from Germany. She had thrown out her landing ropes. Her passengers were watching the waiting ground crew. Suddenly flames ran along the outside of her afterquarter, at the top. There was an explosion that shook the countryside, followed by a series of lesser explosions. Then shooting up a great column of flame and smoke, she crashed to earth.

The news of the tragedy flashed around the world. Chancellor Adolf Hitler, dictator of Germany, who, with other leaders of the Nazi regime whose swastika emblem rode proudly on the Hindenburg's rudders, regarded the ship as a symbol of the greatness of (Continued on Page Ten)

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 7.—(UP)—Dick Merrill, transatlantic flyer, announced today that he expected to take off from Floyd Bennett field tomorrow for London and make the return trip across the Atlantic with pictures of the coronation.

He said Jack Lambie would accompany him as co-pilot.

They will fly a Lockheed Electra plane which is equipped with a two-way radio and automatic pilot device. It will carry 1,200 gallons of gasoline.

PROTESTS FILED AGAINST SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANS

A group of city councilmen met with several industrial plant officials Thursday afternoon in the council chamber to hear protests against council's plans to proceed with the construction of a disposal plant.

Councilmen present were Harry Steinhauser, E. S. Neuding, Clyde Leist and John C. Goeller. James I. Smith, Jr., and Frank Lynch met with the city dads.

TWO ZEPPELINS LEFT

LAKEHURST, May 7.—(UP)—The end of the Hindenburg leaves only two Zeppelins. One is the Los Angeles, property of the United States, long worn out and retired. The other is the Graf Zeppelin which Hugo Eckener flew on many spectacular voyages, including a trip around the world, which convinced millions of the safety and feasibility of lighter-than-air craft.

OTHER, FAGG, AND ROSENDAHL HEADING PROBE

Hydrogen Ignited Aboard 'Perfect' German Ship Blamed for Disaster

GERMAN AGENT SHOCKED

Survivor of Shenandoah Watches From Field

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 7.—(UP)—American and German air experts united today to trace back to its origin the tiny yellow spark that set off a single flash of white flame which destroyed the Hindenburg.

The most famous lighter-than-airship commanders of the United States, the federal air commerce bureau and the representatives of the German government, headed by Ambassador Hans Luther, started their inquiries while the bodies of 35 dead still were being removed from a damp tangle of debris which yesterday was the world's greatest dirigible.

The flare of fire from the Hindenburg's bulging gas bags as she edged down to a landing at the end of her first 1937 transatlantic crossing was almost like a tragic laboratory experiment before the eyes of men trained for years in airship problems; men such as Commander Charles E. Rosendahl of the U. S. navy, who watched from the landing field, and Capt. Ernst Lehmann, a veteran of countless Zeppelin voyages, who was in the control cabin and stumbled from the wreckage suffering serious injuries.

"Perfect" Ship Lost—These men—seeking all their lives the mystery of airship disasters—saw the "perfect" dirigible destroyed. They agreed, so far as they have reached a decision, that somewhere an electric spark flashed through a mixture of hydrogen and air inside the fabric of the ship, touching off the explosion.

That instantaneous explosion resulted because the Hindenburg was filled with hydrogen, which is one of the most explosive gases known when mixed with air, as it would be if there were any leak in the gas bags or if any gas accumulated in the ship when the gas valves were opened for landing. Helium, which was used in American airships, but is not available outside of the United States, will not explode but it is heavier than hydrogen and makes a ship more difficult to maneuver in a storm.

Whether the spark leaped from a motor, shot out of an exhaust as the ship swung slightly aside or was the result of a heavy accumulation of static that touched off the explosion as the soggy landing ropes touched the field, they could not definitely say.

It was the answer to that mystery that was sought in all night conferences among German and American officials, aviation experts and those who had seen or lived through the disaster.

Inquiries Immediate—Probably never before has trained experts had such an opportunity

Legal Notice

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO.

John W. Ebelman and Sons, Plaintiff, vs. The Pleva Puffed Products Company, Defendant.

NOTICE—The Pleva Puffed Products Company, a corporation whose last known residence was Buffalo, New York, will take notice that on the 6th day of May, 1937, John W. Ebelman and Sons, a corporation, plaintiff in the above styled action, filed its petition in the Common Pleas Court, Pickaway County, Ohio, in case No. 17,879 against the above named party. Said action is for damages arising out of a breach of contract to reimburse plaintiff for money expended in equipping a plant for the manufacture of puffed corn and paying for judgment for $1355.64 with costs together with interest from the sixth day of May 1937.

Said defendant is required to answer on or before the 3rd day of July, 1937.

A Survivor—His Clothing Burned From His Body

A survivor of the Hindenburg, suffering terribly from burns, his clothing burned from his body, is led to safety.

to view the destruction of a great airship at such close range from both inside and outside and live. For that reason, informal investigation and conferences started at once, with the prospect later of a navy board of inquiry being summoned should Rosendahl request it of the navy department at Washington, as expected.

Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics, arranged to leave Washington shortly after dawn to join in the inquiry and it was rumored that Secretary of Navy Claude Swanson might come here.

The inquiries will be aided by testimony of so many of the world's leading experts on airships—including Rosendahl, who survived the Shenandoah crash—that there was hope it would provide information of greatest importance to the future construction of airships.

The long, low-roofed administration building of this naval air station was yellow with lights all night as the officials compared with observations and questioned members of the ground crew who had grasped the landing ropes of the dirigible and were dragging her to the landing mast when she exploded.

Naval officers in trim blue suits, stiff white caps and gold buttons that sparkled in the darkness hurried in and out of the building but Rosendahl secluded himself.

Commander Jesse L. Kenworthy, executive officer and second in command at the air station, paused once on the sidewalk a few hours before dawn to talk crisply of the crash. Kenworthy was standing on the landing field when the Hindenburg came into her last port.

"There are half a dozen ways in which a spark could ignite the hydrogen mixed with air," he said.

All Questioned—"Every one of them is being sought in the questioning of the crews and other survivors. It might have been a jump spark from a motor or from an exhaust. It is possible that it was an accumulation of static that caused the fire and explosion but that is less likely."

"I was watching the ship closely as she came in. The first sign of trouble was a little burst of flame from the aft end. Then there was more flame and the aft end sank toward the ground, the nose pointing upward."

"At some time about then there was a burst of yellowish white flame that swept upward through the ship and a series of explosions."

He turned abruptly and walked toward the officers' quarters where the little, white-haired Luther was pursuing another line of inquiry.

Luther, preparing to return to his homeland and retire, speeded to Lakehurst from Washington by airplane and automobile shortly after he was notified of the disaster. With his naval attaché, General Boetticher, he secluded himself in the quarters and began drawing the story of the crash from witnesses.

For Luther, it was perhaps the last and the saddest duty he had performed for his country in America. In typical Prussian fashion, the crew avoided talking outside the conference room.

Still another phase of the inquiry began with the arrival from Washington of Dr. Fred Fagg, Jr., who—in contrast to the ambassador—was facing the first big job since his appointment as head of the Bureau of Air Commerce.

Plantation Rivalry Grows

HONOLULU—(UP)—Rivalry is still on for the biggest plantation in Hawaii or even the mainland itself. The purchase by the Kohala Sugar Company of the Niulili Mill and Plantation properties for more than $1,000,000 gives it a plantation of 12,000 acres that ranks as the second largest in the islands.

They say the next war will make the 1914-18 imbroglio look like a meeting of a humane society. You can't stop civilization once it gets well under way.

PEPPER MARTIN'S QUARTET

The "Missouri Mudcaps" quartet, made up of four members of the St. Louis Cardinals' baseball team, will get their first radio "break" in the Saturday Night Party on May 8, when they join Doris Hare, English comedienne, as guests of James Melton, the Party's master of ceremonies.

The members of the quartet are Lon Warneke, Pepper Martin, Frenchy Bordagaray and Bill McGee. The combination is a little unusual, consisting of harmonica, guitar, fiddle and one vocal member. Warneke, pitching star, plays the guitar; the singing, diva out-fielder, Pepper Martin, performs on the harmonica; Bordagaray, playing his first season at third base for the Cards, sings; and Bill McGee, another pitcher, plays the fiddle. The four got together during training season to while away the time.

The idea of baseball players going musical at one of the Saturday Night Party broadcasts over the NBC red network at 7 p. m. (EST) is not without precedent. Two weeks ago Joe DiMaggio was heard in a confident rendition of "Frankie and Johnny."

ARMSTRONG TO CHICAGO

The "Harlem Broadways" starring Louis Armstrong, Eddie Green and Gee Gee James, will be broadcast from Chicago Friday night with Chicago Negro entertainers as guest stars.

In broadcasts originating from New York, Armstrong has used Negro entertainers from Harlem as guests. Guests for the 30-minute program at 8 p. m. (EST) this Friday will not be selected until Armstrong arrives in Chicago, where he fills a two-week theatre engagement.

Eddie Green and Gee Gee James will be featured, as usual, in a comedy sketch written by Octavus Roy Cohen, with Eddie still trying to get a share of his $3,000 inheritance, which he has entrusted to his fiancée.

LEAGUE TO AID ROSS MINISTERS FIGHTING FORD

Petitions For Removal To Be Circulated in Churches Sunday

STATEMENT DISCLOSED

Law Enforcement Now and in Future Stressed

CHILLICOTHE, May 7—Announcing that petitions for the removal of Mayor James E. Ford will be circulated through the churches Sunday, and declaring itself to be a permanent organization, the Ross County Citizenship League issued the following statement Thursday:

"Wednesday evening, May 5th, the Ross County Ministerial Committee met with associated committees in the interest of law enforcement. Because of the widespread interest in the movement against slot machines and law enforcement officials who fail to enforce the law in relation to gambling devices, it was necessary to enlarge this committee which now embraces the entire county as the Ross County Citizenship League. "The purpose of this larger organization is not limited to the present law enforcement officials but to all those who will succeed them in similar positions of the future.

Chance To Sign
"Petitions for the removal of Mayor Ford will be ready and circulated through the churches by Sunday, May 9th. Many persons outside the churches and associated organizations have been asking for the privilege of signing said petitions. If you are a registered voter in Chillicothe this privilege will be given you Sunday, May 9th, and the subsequent days of the week.

"Evidence relative to the illegal operation of gambling devices in many places throughout the city has been collected and is now in the hands of our attorney, Mr. Phil Butler, who will use same for purposes of prosecution.

"Friends of the movement have offered financial assistance to aid in this law-enforcement campaign. Announcement will be made later as to financial needs. However if any who are interested in this movement, care to make a contribution, they may give same to any of the ministers, who will turn such money over to the treasurer of the Ross County Citizenship League."

ITS TO OPEN TIRE TAYLOR MURDER PROBE

Statements of Ex-Actress
Result in New Inquiry in Mystery Death

JURORS IN SESSION

All Previous Witnesses to Be Questioned

LOS ANGELES, May 7 — (UP) — Burton Fitts, district attorney, today reopened the entire 15-year-old William Desmond Taylor mystery on the basis of new statements made to the grand jury yesterday by Mary Miles Minter, star of the silent movies, and her brother and sister.

Eugene Williams, deputy prosecutor, said he would take statements from all previous witnesses in the case, including Mrs. Douglas McLean, Taylor's former wife, who 15 years ago told of seeing a man leave the Taylor bungalow after a shot was fired.

While waiting to enter the grand jury room, Miss Minter, now 52, plump and matronly, told frankly of her love for Taylor that has kept her unmarried the 15 years since he was slain.

"He was the only man I wanted to marry," she said. "While I may not have lived a hermit's life, I have kept faith and never married."

Taylor was Miss Minter's director. He took charge of her career when she was a blonde curly-haired actress of 16, raised her to stardom in a few months and was shot to death at his home within a year. The slaying has remained one of the strangest unsolved crimes of the movie colony.

Suing Garbo

DAVID SCHRATTER, German film producer, is seen in Los Angeles court as his suit against Greta Garbo, screen actress, for $10,500 was continued until June 21. Miss Garbo's attorney pleaded if the star appeared at present it would delay production and cost the film company $6,000 to $8,000 a day. Schratter asserts he spent the money on Miss Garbo in 1924 to give her a start in films. Her counsel denies this.

OHIO TEACHERS TO VISIT N. E. A. MEETING NAMED

COLUMBUS, May 7 — Announcement of the delegates who will represent the teachers of Central Ohio at the annual summer meeting of the National Education Association, to be held in Detroit, June 27-July 1, was made today by Walton B. Bliss, executive secretary of the Ohio Education Association. The delegates were chosen by ballot through the six sectional associations which comprise the O. E. A. Of the thirty-nine elected delegates, twenty-five are classroom teachers.

Those chosen are as follows:
CENTRAL DISTRICT — W. J. Hilty, Washington, C. H.; Margaret Fitzwater, Columbus; Frances Brown, Dayton; A. B. Weiser, Canal Winchester; Walter L. Arnold, Columbus; Bess Trumper, London; Gilbert A. Lease, Greenville.

The Ohio delegation of forty-three members is completed by Supt. R. W. Solomon of Middle-town, president of the O. E. A., Olive M. Frahm of Columbus, president of the Classroom Teachers Department of the O. E. A., Supt. B. F. Stanton of Alliance, N. E. A. Director for Ohio, and Executive Secretary Walton B. Bliss, Columbus.

COLUMBUS MAN JAILED TO SERVE $17.25 FINE

Paul Luster, 32, of Wisconsin avenue, Columbus, was lodged in the county jail Wednesday night for failure to pay $17.25 costs in police court.

Luster was arrested in the theft of articles from Fire Chief Talmer Wise's junk yard some time ago.

Chief William McCrady went to Columbus Wednesday for Luster. When he failed to find him at home an order was left for him to report Wednesday night.

Questions and Answers

Is there any reason to avoid drinking water at meal time? How much water should we drink each day?

Once it was considered harmful to drink water at mealtime, but provided the water is not drunk for the sake of washing down food, it is helpful rather than harmful. We should drink at least a quart of water each day. As long as the water is not taken to interfere with normal chewing and mastication it makes little difference when it is drunk.

Is it advisable to strain orange juice? Is there any loss of nutritive value in so doing?

To strain orange juice means that only the water soluble material is used, and there is a good amount of nutritive value, notably vitamin A and iron in the suspended particles of pulp which are discarded. In fact, the use of the whole fruit, rather than the juice is a practice to be recommended.

Please give me a recipe for a pie made with prune pulp.

Serve a gelatine pie made with prune pulp and juice topped with whipped cream for a dainty mid-season delicacy.

Prune Pie DeLuxe

1 Tbsp. gelatine
1/4 cup cold water
1/2 cup prune juice
1 cup prune pulp
1/2 cup crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup cream, whipped

Pour cold water in bowl and sprinkle gelatine on top of water. Add sugar, salt and hot prune juice and stir until thoroughly dissolved. Add lemon juice and set aside to cool. When mixture begins to congeal, fold in combination of prune pulp and pineapple and the whipped cream. Pour in previously baked pie shell and set. Serve garnished with nut meats.

Have you ever heard of an Apricot Upside-Down Cake made with coconut? I would appreciate a recipe for it if you could find one for me.

Upside-Down Apricot Cocoa Cake

2 Tbsp. melted butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 No. 2 can apricot halves, drained
8 marshmallow cherries
6 Tbsp. cocoa
1/2 cup hot coffee
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 tsp. soda
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
6 Tbsp. soft shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs, separated
6 Tbsp. milk
1 tsp. vinegar

Grease bottom and sides of pan with melted butter. Sprinkle over bottom. Put cherry in apricot half and arrange cut side down on the sugar. Let stand while preparing cake batter. Mix cocoa and coffee together. Let cool. Sift flour before measuring, sift with soda and baking powder. Cream shortening and sugar together. Add light airy fluffy. Stir in well beaten egg yolks. Add cooled cocoa mixture. Add flour alternately with milk and vinegar. Beat until smooth after each addition. Pour on top of apricots, filling pan to within an inch of the top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35 minutes or until cake shrinks from the sides of the pan. Serve with a topping of sweetened whipped cream, if desired.

NAZIS, SHOCKED, CONTINUE PLANS FOR DIRIGIBLE

LZ-130 Being Constructed
in Berlin For Service
Over Atlantic

DR. ECKENER STUNNED

Official Committee Boards
Europa For New York

BERLIN, May 7.—(UP)—Germans, mourning the loss of their dirigible Hindenburg as a national disaster, pledged themselves today to keep their flag in the air on new and better airships.

An official committee left this morning to investigate the explosion which wrecked the Hindenburg, traveling by airplane to board the liner Europa at Bremerhaven for New York.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, Zeppelin chieftain, left Vienna by automobile to take charge of investigations at this end. Eckener had been visiting Vienna with a war ministry staff captain.

In black bordered newspapers, the people read this morning the story of the tragedy. But beside this story, on the first pages, was the announcement that a new great dirigible, the LZ-130, soon would be completed and put into the transatlantic service.

Not Discouraged

It was not until after midnight in Germany that the Hindenburg burned and the news did not reach the public until this morning. Early workers crowded around the first extras that were grabbed from newsboys. They read not only the story of the tragedy but banner-lined stories which said:

"The new airship is under construction. The German people will not allow themselves to be discouraged."

This is what happened when years before the war old Count Zeppelin's first big airship was destroyed by fire after a forced landing due to engine trouble. Though many people sneered at his work and said that God would have given people wings if he had wanted them to fly, within a week more than 6,000,000 marks (then $1,000,000) was raised by popular subscription to build a new, better one, and Zeppelin went forward with his work.

When the flash first came telling of the Hindenburg's loss most people had gone to bed, tired out, after a day of gay picnicking and partying on the Ascension day holiday.

The clerk on duty at the Zeppelin airport at Frankfurt got the news and thought it was a joke. Half an hour earlier he had received from the Hindenburg the routine message:

"Voyage ended. All aboard well." This is the customary message sent just before a landing.

Realization Difficult

It was a full hour before officials at the field could bring themselves to realize that disaster had overtaken the ship of which Germany was so proud. Then emergency calls were sent to all men employed at the airport, and the sad work of compiling passenger lists, relaying the news and other work was started.

Fuehrer Adolf Hitler was notified by telephone from the ministry of propaganda here. He had just taken a holiday trip in the gunboat Grille along the Kaiser Wilhelm canal from Cuxhaven.

The first official statement was that the disaster was caused by a flash of lightning.

But even today, those who gathered about newspaper bulletin boards or read the black bordered extras, suggested that it might have been sabotage. There was a general mistaken belief among the uninformed that the ship was filled with non-inflammable helium.

At Friedrichshafen, over by Lake Constance, the first task was to find Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Zeppelin chief, who had been in Vienna.

(The Daily Telegraph of London quoted Dr. Eckener as saying by telephone: "I am unable to conceive how such an explosion could have occurred. I probably will have to go to New York to investigate the explosion and its causes.") (He added, the Daily Telegraph

CORN EXCEEDS PRICE RECORDS IN PIT MARKET

CHICAGO, May 7.—Suddenly shooting skyward 2½ cents a bushel late Thursday, corn put into eclipse all high-price records of the last dozen years.

The apex reached, however, $1.31½ for May delivery, was not maintained, values receding at the last almost a cent from the peak as a result of brisk profit-taking.

The new top has not been equalled since early in 1925, when May rose to $1.37½, which in turn was the highest as far back as 1920, when May brought $1.97½.

Summit prices, 5 cents a bushel above May delivery of wheat, the largest premium achieved in many years, where ascribed to an outburst of acute anxiety on the part of traders who are short of corn to meet contract requirements in the next few weeks.

Uncompleted May corn contracts outstanding at present in Chicago total about 5,000,000 bushels, whereas deliverable stocks of corn here are virtually zero.

The market action was in general taken as evidence that arrivals of Argentine corn have failed to lessen tension as to possibilities of a sensational squeeze in prices during May if rural offerings of domestic corn do not soon show decided enlargement.

Showers in Kansas and Nebraska, as well as in parts of the Canadian prairie provinces, together with forecasts of more moisture, tended to hold wheat prices down. Besides, a lull in Canadian export business was apparent.

Rye and oats largely followed wheat. Cash interests were credited with buying May and July rye. Provisions reflected hog market downturns.

ILLITERACY RATIO FIGURED SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—Mildred J. Weise, supervisor of illiteracy and Americanization, has figured that if all the illiterates of California were bunched in one city, it would be the third largest city in the state. And California ranks only 15th among the states in illiteracy.

said, that he failed to see how the disaster could affect construction of two new Zeppelins planned, and ended: "I am almost certain we shall proceed with their construction."

Dr. Ludwig Duerr, chief Zeppelin constructor, was so stunned by the news that he was unable to speak.

CONSTIPATION CUTS DOWN YOUR ENERGY, DULLS HAPPINESS

Don't let common constipation take all the fun out of living. This condition drains your vitality and enthusiasm. It may also be the cause of dull headaches, poor appetite, sleeplessness. You feel punk.

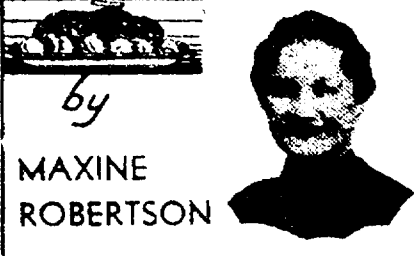

Why endure half-sick days when you can correct constipation due to meals low in "bulk" by eating a delicious cereal?

Millions of people have used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with satisfactory results. Laboratory tests prove it's safe and effective.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, and gently cleanses the intestines. Isn't this food better than taking weakening pills and drugs?

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Three times daily, in severe cases. Serve as cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TEMPTING MENUS

Rhubarb and Fresh Pineapple

Glories of spring includes the taste thrill of fresh fruits like pineapple, rhubarb and strawberries. You may use them in many ways, and vary old favorites to keep the fruit flavors delightful.

Have you ever made a deep dish rhubarb pie? Here's the way we make it, and folks tell us it's good.

Deep Dish Rhubarb Pie
4 C. rhubarb
2 C. granulated sugar
1 C. flour
1 egg, well
1 egg, slightly beaten
Plain pastry

Cut rhubarb in half-inch pieces. Mix sugar, flour, salt and egg. Combine thoroughly with the rhubarb and arrange in six individual casseroles. Roll out plain pastry. Cut circles large enough to cover the top of the casseroles. Gash the pastry in the center of the circles. Place one piece on each casserole, and press the edges firmly in place. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees) for 30 minutes.

A Cocktail That Whets the Appetite
Blend thoroughly, one cup of pineapple juice, one cup of tomato juice, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one tablespoon lemon juice. Add one-half cup of crushed ice. Serves four.

Pineapple Torte
Made with sweetened condensed milk this recipe is in demand for rich desserts.

2 Tbsp. butter
1 tsp. cinnamon
2 C. graham cracker crumbs
1 C. (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1 egg, separated
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 C. finely chopped pineapple

Cook pineapple in a little sugar. Drain off juice. Add butter and cinnamon to graham cracker crumbs. Spread a thick layer of crumbs on bottom of deep 10-inch layer cake pan. Beat egg yolks well, add milk, lemon juice, rind and pineapple. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into pan. Cover with remaining crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

Strawberry Ice Cream
A nice ending for any dinner or luncheon is this fresh strawberry ice cream. Try it the next time you want a treat for the family.

1 C. crushed berries
1/2 C. sugar
1/2 C. cold water
1 Tbsp. gelatin
Melt over hot water
1 C. cream
2 egg whites

Mix berries, sugar and gelatin. Place in refrigerator till thoroughly chilled. Whip cream stiff, also egg whites. Fold into mixture. Turn into trays of refrigerator and freeze three or four hours. Serves eight.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP No. 5

Girl Scout Troop No. 5 held its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in Memorial Hall. The meeting opened with the flag ceremony. Group singing followed. Mrs. W. W. Robinson gave an interesting talk on how to help our leaders, and others also.

In the amateur hour featured in the program for the meeting Eleanor Thomas won first prize. Mary A. Snider second and Viola Arledge, third. Mrs. Robert Smith, scout leader, read several nature stories, and selections from the Girl Scout books. We were dismissed after patrol corners.

Educator, Family to Visit Their Parents in Ashville

Mr. and Mrs. Griffith of Bay Village Expected;
Other News Notes

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Mr. and Mrs. Barton Griffith and children of Bay Village, near Cleveland, will spend the week-end in Ashville with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Griffith and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Taylor.

Mr. Griffith has been superintendent of schools near Cleveland for the last nineteen years. Seven of these at Cleveland Heights and twelve at Bay Village where he has signed a contract for another three years. In 1915, while your correspondent was in charge of The Pickaway News, this same Mr. Griffith, then in the department of journalism at O. S. U., wrote for the news his humorous and much read "Rube and Hannah" column also the life history of many of "our older boys."

Cromley to Plant Corn

Leroy Cromley, across the creek in Walnut township at the "old homestead" is doing some farming, too, this year, along with the others who have large acreages. He will plant to corn 190 acres, nine of which, will be of the hybrid variety raised and sold for seed at a contract price. The Hedges boys, Walter and Roger, just east of town, have 41 acres of this hybrid variety. With the amount of work it takes to detassel this hybrid variety for a period of at least one month, someone will be plenty busy while the tassel season lasts.

Visitor in Village

Edward M. Hines, a former resident of Ashville and for the last several years residing in Columbus, was here yesterday visiting among friends.

To Return to Circleville

Mrs. Clara Denman, who with her brother and sisters has lived in Mt. Sterling the last winter, is removing back to her home at Circleville in the near future.

Job Ended, Another Begun

Fred Curry has completed the cement foundation for the new Earl Essick home in East Main street, and is now doing the same kind of foundation work for the new James Ball residence located on the same street, farther to the east.

In Kuhlwein Dwelling

Elmer Blair and family now occupy the Leonard Kuhlwein dwelling recently vacated by Ray Kuhl-

wein, coming here from Silver Lake, Ind. Mr. Blair has been with the C. & O. railroad for the last nine years and has proven to them to be a reliable and trustworthy employee.

Mrs. Briggs 90

Mrs. Sophia Briggs is celebrating her 90th birthday Friday, May 7. Her Sunday school class, Rev. F. M. Ricketts, teacher, is giving a party for her at the church this evening with a program, cats, candles and all.

Neal Operates Farm

Watson Neal, son of E. Y. Neal, now operates what is known as the Gwynne farm containing 772 acres. E. Y. Neal, the father, operated this farm for 36 years. A herd of 76 fat cattle, with an average weight of 1000 pounds, was recently sold from the farm.

Telegraphy Studied

Ralph Wellington, one of our high school graduates, is under the instruction of Station Agent Joseph Staley, learning telegraphy and railway station work. Ralph told us yesterday that he likes his work and says he is doing fine. He thinks, Howard Wellington and Don Wean, both local boys, have been learning telegraphy for the last year at Circleville under instruction of a Mr. Decamp. They hope soon to be able to pass the required examination and get out on their own.

Officers Listed

The Ashville municipal officers in 1936 according to Fraunfelder's Ashville Directory were: mayor, William M. Miller; clerk, Ward B.

OPEN LETTERS

TO BUSINESS MEN

MERCHANTS: W. E. Wallace, efficient president of the Chamber of Commerce, has called a meeting for next Tuesday evening, which is of interest to every Circleville businessman. The conference will be for discussion of electric light rate ordinances, now pending before the city council. Many businessmen are protesting the commercial schedule. Some councilmen want to approve the ordinance as it is; others oppose it believing merchants are not receiving a warranted reduction. Some settlement should be reached, and as early as possible. I suggest that businessmen work out a definite recommendation, then meet with council, and possibly Southern Ohio Electric Co. officials to voice your wishes.

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: Mayor Graham has designated next week as Safety Week. All civic organizations of the city and county are asked to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in sponsoring a program of education on safety. Last year about 38,000 men, women and children were killed by automobiles on the highways. The loss of life, limb and property through avoidable accidents is appalling. Any program of safety merits the serious consideration of all our citizens. Participate in the program next week and do your share to teach others.

TO DOG OWNERS

RESIDENTS: Dr. V. D. Kerns, health commissioner, recently announced the county quarantine on dogs would be extended until all rabies epidemics in nearby counties have been cleared. City health officials are co-operating in every way with the county health official in preventing a spread of the disease. So far Pickaway county has had very few positive cases of the disease, and every precaution has been taken. I notice some dog owners refuse to comply with quarantine rules by permitting their dogs to run at large. Apparently these dog owners take little interest in the welfare of their friends and neighbors. A few arrests would clear up this situation.

TO ROTARY CLUB

CIVIC LEADERS: The Circuiteer hopes your organization will follow up its resolution that urges the state highway director to go through with the proposed improvement of Route 22 just west of the Scioto river bridge. This short stretch of highway has been a source of constant concern to Circleville and Pickaway county for many years. Delegations have gone to Columbus time after time, but were never able to make progress in their demands. There is only one solution for the terrible

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

It is an edifying thing to see capitol police "frisking" witnesses and suspicious-looking listeners at a senate investigation for possible firearms.

We all know that there are local backwaters in this country where such searches occasionally are deemed necessary at the entrances to district court rooms when hotly-contested cases are pending.

But imagine rival groups of gunmen getting up and shooting out some difference of opinion in the presence of a congressional committee, in session in the senate office building, right here in Washington!

HOLSTERS WORN

Well, as news dispatches have related, that's what capitol police were apprehensive of following the examination, by Senator Robert M. La Follette's inquiry concerning civil rights violations, of witnesses from the Harlan county (Ky.) coal mines.

The capitol police didn't find any firearms. The witnesses apparently had the good taste to leave their

"shooting irons" at their hotels, or somewhere.

But the police did find holsters. Need I say that, in referring to such a situation as edifying, I speak "sarcastically"?

OLD FEUDS

How such conditions can continue to exist in the midst of a supposedly civilized country is puzzling.

They're not new.

Feuds have been known to prevail in Harlan county (Ky.) probably back into the early 1800's.

I investigated it a few years ago.

Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky described it to me as a survival of primitive Americanism. The Kentucky mountaineers, he pointed out, are mighty purely Anglo-Saxon. He conceded that they are annoyingly homicidal — not alone relative to labor issues, but generally.

Good folk, nevertheless, he reasoned.

Eastern Kentucky's judges and prosecutors and sheriffs have been condition of the much-travelled highway; that is, rebuild it completely as a trestle project so water that crosses the road at least once every year will not wreck the pavement. A trestle construction would cost a large sum of money, but it is almost certain that the state highway department has foolishly used more money for repairs than would have been needed for building of a highway that would not have required constant care. This work, I believe, is one of the most important under consideration, and the Rotary club could make a permanent name for itself by seeing that it is carried on.

TO PUMPKIN SHOW DIRECTORS

GENTLEMEN: You will meet tonight to make further plans for this year's celebration, but there is one important item you have overlooked in your recent meetings. Will the "girl" shows be permitted this year? Last year numerous protests were made against the introduction of these shows. Why not settle this problem as early as possible.

TO MOTHERS

LADIES: Mother's Day has become a national institution. In every part of the country its recurrence on the second Sunday of May is greeted each year with a wider observance. In hundreds of churches either motherhood will be the sermon theme or there will be some other form of recognition of the anniversary. Furthermore, thousands of men and women, unattached to churches but keeping alive in them the one human love which knows no rivalry, will honor the day in their own individual ways. Visiting mother, or writing to her, sending her a present, or wearing a flower in her memory if she has passed beyond our mortal ken—each heart will speak to her in its own language. And happy are those who do not have to speak to her across the veil—who have not lost her! What words are there that compare with Home and Mother?

TO SCOUT LEADERS

MEN: There were not enough of you at the meeting this week to make any progress toward a financial campaign necessary to continue supervision by the Central Ohio Area Council for Pickaway county. Many troops are in operation, numerous youths are getting an education in scout work that will mean much to them later, but there seems to be little support for a financial campaign that must be held if aid is to be provided. Many persons are in favor of going on with Boy Scout work without assistance of the area council, but others believe it is necessary for the good of all scouts and their programs. No date has been fixed for the next meeting of leaders of the movement, but it is hoped sincerely that much larger representation is present.

TO COUNTY FARMERS

MEN OF SOIL: Nearly all of you have received letters from the county compliance committee, under the government's soil conservation program, urging participation. Many of you will go along, others will not, for various reasons. Last year Uncle Sam sent $135,000 to Pickaway county for distribution among 1,332 farmers, who complied with governmental programs. The amount can be as great, or even higher this year, if agriculturalists will participate. The county has always benefitted by the fact that persons in charge of the federal crop projects have been working for the good of every one of you. Co-operation is necessary to make them successful.

New Ways For Old in Blood Transfusions

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
NOT VERY LONG ago I was waiting in Ann Arbor for a bus to go to Detroit, when a young man picked me up in an automobile and offered to carry me in for a small sum. On the way in we got into conversation, and among other things he told me that he was able to augment his income from time to time by giving blood for transfusion to patients in the hospital. He was one of a large group of so-called professional donors who are available in nearly any large medical center.

Dr. Clendingning

In New York, London, Paris and Berlin, at least, all of these donors are grouped in a society under a board of medical control. The bureau has available at all times suitable donors for immediate transfusion of patients under the care of hospitals, and physicians who are members of the organization. They are given a fee of $7 for each 100 c.c. of blood, and are not used again until a period of time has elapsed corresponding in weeks to the number of 100 c.c. amounts of blood drawn (one week for each 100 c.c.). Regular laboratory and medical re-examinations of the donors are made. They are instructed by lectures and assigned lessons in the principles and details of blood transfusion, and their lives are so supervised that patients are completely protected. Similar organizations may be expected beyond long of those who can give convalescent serum for diseases such as infantile paralysis, in which convalescent serum is beneficial.

New Development

This is quite a new development in medical practice. Blood transfusions have been used for a number of years. In fact, they were started several hundred years ago, but were not successful because the principles were not understood. The blood of the lower animals was used to be transfused into man, which is dangerous and useless. It was found also that the blood of certain individuals did not mix well with others. For this reason, donors and recipients have to be typed. The young man with whom I was riding knew exactly what type he was and with what type patients his blood could be used. This is a great improvement on the time when, if a transfusion was to be given, everybody in the family was hurriedly called together and typing proceeded until the proper one was found. Inasmuch as transfusion is, in many instances, an emergency remedy, it is highly important that proper donors should be available at a moment's notice. Time lost in selecting a donor from a crowd of unknowns may mean the difference between life and death. Transfusion is used for so many things now, and is so routine a part of hospital practice, that such organization is quite necessary.

CHAPTER 44

JUST AS Jacqueline felt that she could not draw another breath when Joplin's huge hands began to squeeze her throat, the pressure was relaxed and she sank into a limp heap on the floor.

"That's what you'll get—see?" came Joplin's voice.

Jacqueline attempted no reply, and after a moment the man went on.

"Listen," he said. "That's what you'll get an' then you'll go overboard. Twenty-five hundred dollars I'll get for doing it. Get me?" He stirred her with his foot. "Get me?" he repeated. "That's the offer the gentleman made—$2,500 to put you out and keep me mouth shut."

Jacqueline gazed at him with horrified eyes.

"You were offered $2,500 to—to get rid of me?"

"Ah."

"By Colonel Lutman?"

"No names," said Joplin. "Incog, see? Turned it down, I did. Killing ain't my line. Twenty-five dollars a week, I said, an' I'll keep 'er till she pegs out—but no killing. That's me. Gentle, I am."

Jacqueline's fingers touched her throat.

"But no larks—see?" added Joplin. "No hollering. No whistling. No nothing. Twenty-five dollars is $25, and I ain't losing it. Any more larks and I'll..." He raised his hands again and moved them toward her throat. "Get me? And then overboard you go. Twenty-five hundred dollars—see?"

He turned, lumbered to the door, and paused.

"Get me?"

Jacqueline nodded.

"Well, that's 'nuff, then."

The girl climbed back into the bunk, lay down and closed her eyes.

Mrs. Smith was not in the best of moods. To begin with, dawn, when she opened her eyes, greeted her with a reminder that the pleasant future to which her thoughts had lately flown as soon as she awoke in the morning, no longer existed as a possibility. Jacqueline, with her blunt refusal to marry Jim Asson, had completely shattered all prospect of the comfortable, carefree life to which her mother had been looking forward, and the future now simply would not bear looking into.

Mrs. Smith, with an uneasy feeling that fate was about to deal her another blow, set down the cup of tea and proceeded to investigate. The fact that Jacqueline's pajamas were not in their case on the pillow caused her a quick stab of fear and sent her hurrying to the dressing table. And there she received another stab. Brushes, comb and hand mirror were missing. She crossed to the wardrobe and peered inside. Several frocks, she realized, were not there; and when the chest of drawers revealed that most of her daughter's underclothes had disappeared, there seemed to Mrs. Smith to be nothing for it but to believe the incredible. Jacqueline, without a word of explanation or warning, had gone away. But why? And where?

It struck Mrs. Smith with sudden devastating force that Charles Stuckey might well be the cause of all the disasters that had overtaken her since she had so satisfactorily arranged her own and Jacqueline's future. And the more she thought about it, the more feasible that explanation became. Jacqueline obviously liked the man. Even at Cobenzl, when he had worn those preposterous plus-fours and that ridiculous hat, she had been far more charming to him than she had ever been to Jim Asson, and it had been quite evident that the Stuckey person had been very much attracted to her. She remembered now that during the journey to England Jacqueline had taken no notice of Jim and had spent most of the time talking to Stuckey.

That morning at the office, too—the way Jacqueline had insisted on speaking to him alone, and the way Stuckey had backed her up. She should have realized then that there was something afoot and have refused to stand any nonsense. They probably hadn't discussed the marriage settlement at all—had just got rid of the others on that pretext so that they could have a little time together and lay their plans.

In moments of crisis Mrs. Smith was rarely at a loss to know what she should do. Long experience of recurrent financial crises in Continental hotels had made her both resolute and quick-witted, and in this crisis she decided instantly what must be done. She must go to Stuckey's office. That was obviously the first step. If he really had married Jacqueline, he would have to listen to what she had to say to him, and answer a few questions. Mrs. Smith felt that as Jacqueline's mother she had a right to know what sort of an income Charles Stuckey made, and what sort of an allowance her daughter was to receive.

Mrs. Smith as a rule could be relied upon to keep her head in an emergency, but in the present one she so far lost her accustomed poise as to forget the depleted state of the family exchequer and traveled to Rotherhithe by taxi.

But long before the cab stopped outside the office of Messrs. Stuckey & Stuckey she was quite herself again. As she entered the office and Mr. Bells rose to attend to her, she was dignity personified and self-possession incarnate.

"Is Mr. Stuckey in?"

"He is, madam," replied Mr. Bells.

"Ah!" said Mrs. Smith, as though the fact of Mr. Stuckey's presence caused her supreme satisfaction. "Then please tell him, my good man, that I wish to see him."

Mr. Stuckey is engaged, madam—" began Mr. Bells, but Mrs. Smith cut him short.

"Mr. Stuckey will see me," she said. "Tell him it is Mrs. Smith." Then, as Mr. Bells hesitated, she crossed to the door of Charles' private room and grasped the knob. "There's a taxi waiting at the door," she said. "Please pay the

You're Telling Me!

JOE DECIDED this season to do the house cleaning himself. He admitted his life's companion was a wonderful girl and there was no better cook this side of the Crillon, in Paris. But when it came to the annual tidying up the lady was as lacking in efficiency as a Mexican hairless lack fleas.

So Joe bought his wife a one-way ticket to the old home town and sent her away on a week's vacation. Joe wanted no red traffic lights flashing when he went into high in his self-assumed cleaning career.

Joe bought a dozen boxes of soap flakes, a pair of pails, two mops, a broom and a gross of towels. Then he turned the hot water faucet on full blast and went to work like a man suffering from hives who has just stumbled over an ant hill.

For two days Joe's home was just a blur of mops and flying suds. You had to admit that while Joe might be short of horse sense he had more energy than a transatlantic liner's turbine.

By Saturday Joe was finished and sat down to look at his handiwork. He hadn't stopped to notice before. Joe gasped—for a moment he thought he was in ancient Greece, surveying the ruins of Parthenon, merged with the city dump.

In utter horror Joe wired his wife to stay another week. Then he called in a battalion of carpenters, paper hangers, interior decorators, charwomen and furniture

The Rev. Roy A. Burkhardt performed the ceremony in the presence of about 40 guests.

The former Miss Streich conducted the recent cooking school sponsored by The Herald.

Mr. Dick is connected with the research department of the University of Wisconsin. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dick are graduates of Ohio State university.

They will reside in Madison, Wisconsin.

Mr. John T. Dick and Mrs. Verma Tootle, of New Holland, father and aunt of the bridegroom, attended the wedding.

Methodist Church Day

The Women's Societies of the Methodist Episcopal church held their regular monthly meetings, Thursday, in the church.

The all day day session opened with the meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society, which was called to order at 10 o'clock, by Mrs. F. E. Barnhill, the president. Mrs. Fred Nicholas was in charge of the devotionals, and Mrs. C. C. Watts gave an interesting report of the Spring district meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society, held in Lancaster, Tuesday, April 27. Mrs. Nicholas talked on the work of the Susanah Wesley Home, in Honolulu.

Man-Tailored Suit

BLACK AND gray is the color scheme chosen by Kay Francis, picture star, to wear this spring.

Her suit is a handsome man-tailored gray sharkskin, and her accessories are a black blouse, brightened with a gay pin at the throat, black pumps, bag and gloves, and a gray hat the color of the suit.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Ora Ora Pontius, Mrs. W. S. Gearhart and Mrs. C. D. Closson were appointed members of a nominating committee to prepare a panel of officers for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Nicholas as chairman of the program committee, then introduced Mrs. Leon Van Vliet, who offered a program of music by her piano students. The first number was a solo by Miss Vera Jean List, "Sunbeams and Roses", by Bliss. A duet, "The Camel Train," by Baines, was played by Miss Eleanor McAbee and Charles Mowery, Jr.; "Rapid Fire" by Duvernoy, was played by Miss Ethyl May. Glenn McCoy and Mrs. Van Vliet played a Duet, "March". "The Tap Dancer" was the number chosen by Miss Doris Leist and Miss Eleanor Dreisbach and Mrs. Van Vliet continued the program with a duet, "Feathered Songsters". Miss Betty Weiler gave a solo, "Sparkling Cascades", by Williams. The next number on the program was a piano quartet, "Valse Lorraine," by Missa, played by Miss Christine Greeno, Charles Mowery, Miss Betty Weiler and Miss Doris Leist. The program was ended with a piano solo, "Music Among the Pines" by Wyman, offered by Miss Eyer Dreisbach.

An unusually large crowd attended the luncheon given at noon by the Ladies Aid society.

Following a short business meeting of the Aid society at 1 o'clock, the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the church held its regular meeting. The session opened with singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name", and the forming of the prayer circle. Reports of the branch meeting in Lancaster and the group meeting in New Holland were given by Mrs. Charles Gerhardt and Mrs. W. T. Ulin, respectively. Mrs. Fannie Kirkpatrick gave the Stewardship lesson. The devotional topic, "The Life," was discussed by Mrs. S. G. Rader and Mrs. Gerhardt. The program was based on the Mystery Box Questions, from the Missionary Magazine, "The Friend". The subjects discussed were Citizenship, World Peace, and Temperance. Those taking part in the discussion were Mrs. Fred Nicholas, Mrs. Fannie Kirkpatrick, Mrs. W. T. Ulin, Mrs. Gerhardt, Mrs. Mack Noggle, Miss Sylvia Brunner, Miss Anne Kirkwood, and Miss Anna Grimes. Mrs. Mack Noggle sang one solo, "My Task". The meeting closed with the benediction.

WAR ADMIRAL DERBY FAVORITE BECAUSE OF RIVALS' WEAKNESSES

ODDS MAY STOP AT 8 TO 5 WITH RAIN POSSIBLE

Brooklyn and Case Ace Off Starting List; Others May Follow Friday

POMPOON, OTHERS WATCH

Hunch Players Supporting Heavily as Surprise

By HENRY McLEMORE

LOUISVILLE, May 7—(UP)—

Louisville was flooded again today with the golden, negotiable dollars of those who like War Admiral in the 63rd running of the Kentucky derby.

The son of Man O' War—off big red himself—stood at 8 to 5 in the betting marts and was a cinch to be hammered down to even money by post time tomorrow afternoon.

War Admiral had no reason to feel proud over his position as favorite, however, because it was given to him in the form of a left-handed compliment. He is getting the play because of his rivals' weakness.

Outside of the Admiral there isn't a three-year-old in the field who hasn't displayed his flaws in public. The Admiral may display his tomorrow, but there is no getting around the fact that right now he is the only solid horse in the bunch that will shoot for the $50,000 prize. That is, off three-year-old form, and that's the only form the smart boys and girls car about. The Admiral won the

ROY WEATHERLY CLUBS INDIANS TO .500 PERCH

CLEVELAND, May 7—(UP)—Roy Weatherly, one of the American league's freshman stars of a year ago but a distinct disappointment early this season, today had indicated he was coming out of his slump.

The little outfielder smashed out a home run with one man on base in the eighth inning yesterday to give the Cleveland Indians a 4 to 2 triumph over the Washington Senators.

The victory enabled the Indians to climb back to the .500 mark as they prepared to open a series with the champion New York Yankees. Denny Galehouse was to hurl for the Indians.

Chesapeake in Maryland in impressive fashion, and his workouts have been of the highest order.

Hot Then Cold

All the others have blown hot and cold, Pompoon particularly. The winter book favorite looked okay in the Paumonok, died in the stretch in the Wood Memorial and has been hustling beautifully in his workouts.

Reaping Reward was licked in the derby "trial" but has been practicing like a champion. On the other hand, Dellor, Reaping Reward's conqueror in the prep race, has been sluggish in trials.

Hunch players were going for the Three D stable's Heefly, a handsome article which has been scorching the track in daybreak trials. But those who are supposed to know, think Heefly is strictly an exhibitionist, and will fold when the running is for keeps.

Boiled down, the situation strictly is this: on three-year-old performance War Admiral is a shoo-in; on two-year-old performance there are half a dozen or more colts fully capable of winning. The question is: can they carry the load for a mile and a quarter with stake weights on their backs?

Sixteen or seventeen will go to the post, and among those absent will be Col. Bradley's Brooklyn, a hot winter book baby, and Milky Way's Case Ace. They were definitely scratched yesterday, and more will come today.

Weather Uncertain

The weather will decide the fate of several nominees, and right now the weather is unpredictable. It cleared up yesterday and was bright and nice today, but the weather man says he has a feeling it will come up mud on the morning, and if it does, one of the most wide open races in years will be thrown straight into the laps of the gods.

C. A. C. WINNER IN 9 TO 7 LOOP GAME THURSDAY

Circleville Athletic Club softball players won a 9-7 slugfest from the Coca Colas, Thursday evening, in a Tri-County league game.

Crissinger pitched for the winners while Davis and Johnson divided the hill duties for the losers.

TRIO OF STATES SEND ATHLETES TO ATHENS MEET

ATHENS, May 7—(UP)—Scholastic track stars from three states were entered in the fourth annual Ohio University Relays to be held here today.

The Relays here are run along the same lines as the famed college meet conducted by the University of Pennsylvania. No team championships are determined.

W. H. Herbert, meet director, announced 42 schools will send 550 athletes here to compete.

Steuerville, with an 18 man team, has the largest squad entered in Class "A," while Columbiana, second to Columbus Upper Arlington in the Ohio Wesleyan relays last week, topped the "B" schools with 12 entrants.

Cleveland East Tech was the dominant team in the 1936 renewal of the Ohio U. relays. East Tech took five titles here and then went on to win the state scholastic championship at Columbus.

Seven individual and six relay events will make up the meet program. All will be run on a class basis with one exception. The lone "open" event will be the 120 yard low hurdles.

Four records made by scholastic aces in the relays here a year ago were accepted by the National Scholastic Honor Roll committee as among the best made in the nation for the season.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Van Mungo, Brooklyn's ace and fastest pitcher in the National league, who stopped the league-leading Pirates with a 7-hit game and drove in two runs with a double and single to aid his own cause.

DETROIT CLIMBS INTO TIE WITH NEW YORK YANKS

NEW YORK, May 7—(UP)—The Yankees had company atop the American league today. Deadlocked with the world champions for first place were the Detroit Tigers and the Boston Red Sox.

Detroit created the 3-way tie by knocking off New York yesterday, 12-6, after losing the first two games of the series. Nobody has paid much attention to the Red Sox since they nose dived to the sixth place last season. But the Red Sox won their fifth game in six starts yesterday, by nosing out the St. Louis Browns, 2-1.

GRISOM HALTS NEW YORK TEAM WITH CALCIMINE

BOSTON, Mass., May 7—(UP)—Victor in their first series of the year the Cincinnati Reds moved in here today to open an engagement with the Boston Bees.

The Reds took their initial series yesterday when they defeated the New York Giants 4 to 0. The triumph gave Manager Charley Dressen renewed hope that his charges had finally settled down and were to play the type of ball predicted in the pre-season forecast.

Lee Grissom, the husky rookie southpaw, pitched superb ball against the Giants to give the Reds their third triumph in 12 starts. Grissom limited the New Yorkers to four hits.

The Red rookie was in trouble only twice. He walked the first man to face him in the seventh and eighth innings, but then bore down to escape without damage. Grissom's control was much better than in his previous two starts and he passed but four men.

Another of the National league's rookie stars, Cliff Lanier, opposed Grissom at the start of the contest.

CANZONERI MAY CONCLUDE FIGHT CAREER TONIGHT

NEW YORK, May 7—(UP)—Tony Canzoneri, the old man of the prize-ring, seeks his third title in the lightweight division tonight with a fighting heart that keeps him going long after father time told him to quit.

The swarthy little fighter, who has won and lost the 135-pound crown three times, meets Champion Lou Ambers in a 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden. The betting is 3 to 1 that Tony loses and finally hangs up the gloves that have carried him to four world titles in more than a dozen years ago.

A crowd of perhaps 15,000 will see the fight and practically everyone will be rooting for the little man whose name will go down alongside of boxing's immortals. But few think he will win because everything is against Tony.

The challenger is 32, he has had over 150 fights, his main asset is a stiff punch and a heart that doesn't know the meaning of the word quit. Ambers is only 22; he was the stamina to go 15 rounds without tiring; he doesn't punch hard but his stinging, cutting blows land often.

Five Ohio-Owned Horses in Derby

Five Ohio-owned horses were named for this year's Kentucky derby—Numerically, it is the best representation in years—With the original field of 103 diminished to about 20, four of the five still are in the lists—Sceneshipper and Fencing, trained by Earl Sande, former mighty jockey, and owned by Colonel Maxwell Howard of Dayton, are important contenders.

—He also named Gloom Buster, which has been withdrawn....
Bernard F., owned by I. J. Collins of Lancaster, is another major candidate—The fourth Ohio horse still in the running is Alubulle, owned by A. C. Ernst of Cleveland.

—Bernard F. is all but an Ohio-bred horse—His sire and dam both were owned by Mr. Collins—He was foaled in Kentucky and brought when only a few weeks old to his owner's Fairfield Stock Farms near Lancaster—He made his first start last May at Beulah Park when he finished second to an Ohio-bred filly, Darbyanna—Bernard F. recently won the Tropical Park Special, closing three-year old feature of the Florida season—He is an exceptionally fast horse....

Sceneshipper and Fencing were purchased from J. E. Widener by Colonel Howard during the winter in Florida—Sceneshipper won over the mile and one-eighth route in but a fraction of a second over the world's record—Fencing, recently won the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland, defeating among others, Brooklyn and Billionaire from the stable of Col. E. R. Bradley—Off their records, Bernard F., Sceneshipper and Fencing are prime contenders for the classic of next Saturday, and Alubulle has shown some promising form....

—Last important contention provided by an Ohio-owned horse was in 1928 when Mistep, property of L. J. Marks of Columbus, finished second to the great Reigh Count—Mistep led into the home stretch in that derby but could not withstand Reigh Count's closing drive—Back in 1922, John Finn, owned by George Baker of Dayton, came to the derby in poor condition, but managed to finish third—Morvich won that derby and Bet Mosie was second—John Finn developed bolts on his withers the day prior to the race and ran the full mile and one-quarter with the saddle cloth chafing them rawer at every stride—Sound, he might have won***

A black and white comic book panel showing an elderly man, Bradford, sitting on a wooden bench. He is wearing a light-colored jacket and trousers. He is holding a small cup and offering it to a muscular man lying on the bench. The muscular man is wearing a tank top and shorts, and appears to be in a state of weakness or exhaustion. Bradford is speaking to him, saying, "BRADFORD — BRADFORD, MY BOY! COME TO — I'VE REMOVED YOUR BONDS — SEE? — AND HERE'S A CUP OF HOT BROTH!"

CONTRACT BRIDGE

IF YOU PARTNER has made such a bad bid that he had to excuse himself and leave the table, you have a perfect alibi for going down at your contract. You can keep a stiff upper lip, you may still manage to make it if the opponents display a certain amount of genius in helping you. Be prepared at such a time to recognize and accept all gifts.

A small club from dummy to the second trick was ducked by East, letting the singleton K score. The spade 2 was lost immediately to the J of West, who didn't like the heart situation and was afraid to lead into a diamond tenace, so preferred the club Q. Mr. Rothschild ruffed this with his spade 7, overlooked the heart J with the Q, finessed the diamond Q and led the heart K, discarding a diamond from dummy. East trumped this with the K, forcing a ruff in the club Ace, which was ruffed with the spade 8. The spade Ace and diamond Ace were now played, the diamond 2 ruffed in dummy and the club J furnished sufficient tricks to make the contract.

ELL TELEPHONE CO. TO SPEND $200,000 IN CIRCLEVILLE AND CHILlicothe

LONG DISTANCE CABLE PLANNED DURING SUMMER

New Repeater Station to Be Installed in Ross County Seat

TO START IN SEPTEMBER

Two Cities to be Links in Circuit to 35 Cities

Long distance facilities north and south through Circleville will be increased by a $200,000 program to construct a new underground telephone line between Circleville and Chillicothe and a new telephone repeater station at Chillicothe. The program was announced Friday by officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone company. The program will be started this summer and finished early next year. The first step will be the construction of the new repeater station at Chillicothe. Bids on the building will be asked this month. The building will be owned jointly by the Ohio Bell company and the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Cable to Cost $108,000
The total expenditure in Chillicothe will be $92,000, including the cost of land, the new building, and the equipment it will house. The Chillicothe-Circleville long distance cable will cost approximately $108,000.

The new repeater station will be an important link in Ohio's telephone system. Through it will pass 35 key long distance circuits connecting points in Kentucky, West Virginia, and southern Ohio with cities to the north. Cities served by these north-south facilities include Cincinnati, Dayton, Gallipolis, Ironton, Jackson, Portsmouth, Waverly, Chillicothe, Circleville, Ashland, Ky., and Charleston and Huntington in West Virginia. Calls from smaller intermediate points will be transmitted through the new Chillicothe repeater station.

The new Chillicothe-Circleville long distance cable will be buried the entire distance between the two cities. It will tie into the Columbus-Circleville cable a mile east of Circleville, providing new facilities from Chillicothe to the state capital.

To Start in September
Placing of the cable will be started in September and completed in February, in time for the establishment of service in the new Chillicothe repeater station.

Remarkable Photo—Hindenburg Breaking in Two

This Central Press picture was taken at the exact moment that the dirigible Hindenburg hit the ground in flames at Lakehurst, N. J. The huge ship is seen breaking in two.

Germany, was awakened from his sleep to be told of the disaster. On his fishing yacht off the coast of Texas, the word was flashed to President Roosevelt who immediately cabled to Hitler the sympathy and condolence of the American people.

News of the tragedy went also to Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the Zeppelin company at Friedrichshafen, the greatest living authority on lighter-than-air craft, the man whose flights have made his name synonymous with dirigibles. He was stunned for an instant, then said that the Zeppelin would come back from this disaster and justify his faith and work. He probably will come to America to investigate personally.

In Lakehurst, while bodies still were being removed from the wreckage, officials and experts were assembling for the inevitable investigation.

Luther's Last Task

Hans Luther, the little, white-haired German ambassador, flew here from Washington to perform what probably will be his last important task for his country in the United States—he is soon to retire. He began immediately to question members of the Hindenburg's crew for his report to his government.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, a survivor of the navy's Shenandoah disaster, one of America's leading dirigible authorities, and commandant of the Lakehurst station, had been an eye-witness and he too was questioning survivors.

The exact cause of the disaster was not known and may never be known. One thing seemed certain—that a spark of electricity set off the Hindenburg's hydrogen gas—one of the most explosive of gases when mixed with air. This spark might have come from one of her four Diesel engines swung in gondolas along her side. Or it might have come from accumulated static electricity set off when her soggy landing rope touched the ground.

Public to Cooperate

Rosendahl explained to his superiors that there had been no

damage to naval property and that "it was not believed that there were other than minor injuries to any navy personnel." He urged the public to stay away from the reservation which had been closed and was being patrolled by soldiers. A member of the ground crew died after the report had been filed.

In Washington, the embattled little group in congress and the navy department who have maintained their faith in dirigibles despite the Macon, the Akron, and the Shenandoah disasters acknowledged that their hopes that America would again build dirigibles for military purposes had died in the wreckage of the Hindenburg. The great ship and her older and more famous sister, the Graf Zeppelin, which makes regular commercial runs to South America, had been the chief supporters of their arguments that dirigibles were safe, were militarily effective, and that this country had not given them sufficient trial.

Took Air Tuesday

The Hindenburg left Frankfurt, Germany, Tuesday on the first of this season's flights to the United States. Last summer she had cruised back and forth over the north Atlantic, carrying hundreds of passengers without the slightest mishap.

Off Newfoundland she encountered headwinds, and she came down the New England coast yesterday 12 hours late. In mid-afternoon she sailed over Manhattan, proud, stable, the queen of the skies. At 5 p. m. (EST) she appeared over the Lakehurst station, her American terminal, where the civilian ground crew, was waiting. A thunder storm came up suddenly and with it, blinding rain. She soared off to await its end.

At 6 p. m. she came again over the field. The rain by now was a drizzle. Around the hangar awaited several hundred civilians, many sight-seers, but among them were relatives and friends of her passengers, also the American friends of members of the crews.

The crowd was thrilled by her. She appeared tearfully beautiful as her great bulk settled closer and closer to earth. The crowd could see the passengers at the windows, waving and shouting; it heard the commands rumbling down from the control cabin through megaphones. Trail ropes dropped out of her tail. Another rope dropped out of her nose. Now she was 200 feet from the crowd. Suddenly a shrill scream broke out from the crowd of onlookers. A woman had seen a puff of flame appear at the top of the ship toward the rear, then race along toward its nose. For an instant, the silence was so absolute that the rippling of flames was audible. Then screams and shouts and hysterical weeping lifted toward the ship which by now was shooting up a great column of flame and smoke. There was a terrific explosion and for miles around windows shook and bodies came hurtling out of the ship, falling among the spectators and ground crew.

The instinct for self preservation seized the persons on ground at the same instant. It looked as though the great mass of flame was falling directly on them, and they scattered, some shouting in their terror, in all directions. Then courage returned to some and they turned back. The nose of the Hindenburg had gone up, her tail down, and she was buckling a little just aft of her middle where the column of fire now was centered. More bodies came pummeling down—passengers and crew who were saving themselves. Then, with a crash, the Hindenburg hit the ground, enmeshed in flames from one end to the other.

Figures Appear
Grotesque, piteous figures appeared from the flames. There was a man entirely nude, running as though possessed. The explosion had ripped every stitch from his body. Another naked man—another and another. There was a man whose hair had been burned off—a woman and a man bleeding profusely from face wounds—a man whose face was raw, whose flesh hung in little appendages from tiny strips of flesh.

Then a bleeding figure staggered from the fire. It was clad in uniform that had been torn and ripped. Its face was begrimed and cut. Its blue eyes stared strangely. It was Captain Lehmann, a dirigible captain whose experience went back to the World War, next to Eckener in the Zeppelin works.

"I can't understand how it happened," he said shakily, addressing no one. "I can't understand how it happened."

He repeated his statement over and over. He was carried off to the hospital in Lakewood.

They picked up the body of Captain Pruss from the field. He was badly hurt.
